New York, November 13.—(AP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith told the country over the radio tonight that the principles of the democratic party were as great in defeat as they would have been in victory, and that it was the party's duty to "carry on and vindicate" the principles for which it had fought.

Standing before a microphone in a National Broadcasting studio, the defeated democratic presidential candidate delivered what many had called his political valedictory.

His speech, broadcast over a nationwide hookup of stations, urged united support of Herbert Hoover—although he did not mention him by name—asserting that the man selected by the people last Tuesday to lead the country was "not the president of the republic, but president of the United States."

"We are Americans,"

It would not do, said Governor Smith, to let bitterness, rancor or indignation over the result "blind us to the outstanding fact that we are Americans."

Referring to the thousands of letters he said he had received since the election and since he had announced that he would not again be a candidate for public office, the governor said he had been asked "not to lose interest" in the democratic party.

He said he did not regard the defeat of his party as interfering with the soundness of the principles for which it stood, and that with all the vigor he could command he would continue not only to stand for those principles but to "battle for them."

He added a pledge of increasing interest in and devotion to them.

"Now that the dust and smoke of battle have cleared away, I am grateful for the privilege extended to me by the democratic national committee of speaking to millions of my fellow citizens and of presenting to them some reflections of the campaign just ended."

"The democratic party is the oldest political organization in the United States, so well defined are the doctrines and the principles upon which it is founded that it has survived defeat after defeat. In the sixty-five years that have passed since the civil war, only two presidents were elected on the democratic ticket. No political organization otherwise founded would have been able during all these years to maintain an appeal to the people brought to the polls on last election day."

No Crushing Defeat.

DONOVAN VISIT

REVIVES HOOVER

CABINET RUMORS

Assistant Attorney General Is Believed Slated for Advancement to First Position.

BY W. B. RAGSDALE.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Stanford University, Cal., November 13.—Herbert Hoover, busy himself today with the work of winding up the many personal affairs and details of his good-will trip that must be completed before he leaves his home here Sunday for San Pedro to begin the voyage to South America.

The president-elect started his day with a conference with William J. Donovan, assistant United States attorney general, whom he had summoned here from Washington. Then he turned to some of the many personal matters pressing upon him and during the course of the day visited San Francisco to do some shopping.

Cabinet Possibility.

Donovan is regarded as the outstanding figure of those mentioned for the post of attorney-general in the Hoover cabinet. He reached here today after flying from Chicago to Kansas City and thence to Los Angeles, completing his journey by train to the southern California city of Palo Alto.

The assistant attorney-general has long been a friend of the president-elect and was one of his closest advisers.

Although only his parents have been allowed to visit, Leon Tora! Captain Obregon gained admission to the penitentiary today because he was well known by the authorities. They had no suspicion of his intention.

Tonight an extraordinarily heavy guard was placed about Tora! to forestall any further attempt to kill him.

The prisoner, despite the sentence of death which hangs over him, maintains complete calm in his cell. He divides his time between writing his autobiography and pursuing his favorite recreation, sketching.

Mother Concepcion, who was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment after conviction as an accomplice of Tora!, has transformed her cell in the same penitentiary into a veritable chapel, decorated by religious objects. She spends much of her time in writing poetry and in prayer.

Captain Obregon locked himself in his room after reaching his home. Shortly afterward others in the house heard a shot, and breaking in, found him lying on the floor. He was taken to a first aid station where he died.

Several years ago Obregon had been an officer attached to inspector general of police but in 1922 he fatally shot a policeman. The court found him mentally irresponsible. Later he appeared to have recovered but when some time ago he appeared at the door of a police station and opened fire on the occupants, it was decided to send him to the state of Sonora. He returned recently to Mexico City and attended the trial of Tora!.

The police tonight said that Captain Obregon shot mentally unbalanced when he visited the prison.

DR. MACLAUGHLIN

IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Pastor of Lutheran

Church of the Redeemer

Was Prominent in Atlanta Ministerial Circles

Dr. Charles Peter MacLaughlin, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, died suddenly early Tuesday night at his home, 1005 Adair avenue. Dr. MacLaughlin apparently had been in as good health as usual all day Tuesday, had eaten his evening meal in his home and had risen from the table when he was suddenly stricken by a heart attack and died within a few minutes. He was 58 years of age at the time of his death.

Dr. MacLaughlin came to Atlanta in 1925 to assume the pastorate of the Church of the Redeemer and since that time had gained prominence in local ministerial circles and had established himself in the hearts of his congregation.

A native of Pennsylvania, he graduated from Susquehanna university, where he was a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, and then went to Lutheran seminaries at Gettysburg, Pa., and Chicago, where he finished his education for the ministry. He later was to become a member of the board of directors of the Chicago seminary.

Immediately after his graduation from the seminary he began his years of service with the church, which extended to the day of his death. He has had charges in Chicago, Ill., Meyersdale, Greensburg and Pittsburgh, Pa., and in Concord, N. C., in addition to the Atlanta church. He has had charges in Chicago, Ill., Meyersdale, Greensburg and Pittsburgh, Pa., and in Concord, N. C., in addition to the Atlanta church.

He is survived by his widow; his mother, Mrs. Emma S. MacLaughlin, of South Bend, Ind.; a daughter, Miss Mary E. MacLaughlin, Jr., of South Bend, Ind.; a daughter, Miss Mrs. E. B. Shaw, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. James Fuller, of South Bend, Ind., and a granddaughter, Roseann MacLaughlin.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Awtry & Lowndes.

Failure of Police To Find Rothstein Murderers Brings Action From New York Mayor.

New York, November 13.—(AP)—A mass of facts and rumors were dumped today into the hopper out of which the police hope will come the answer to that puzzling question, "Who murdered Arnold Rothstein?"

In and out of court there were developments in the mystery that has surrounded the killing of the notorious gambler. Although he was wounded just a week ago from a bullet fired into his abdomen at the Park Central hotel, the public has learned nothing concerning the identity of the slayer.

On Case All Week.

Mayor Walker, Police Commissioner Warren, District Attorney Banton, Inspector John D. Coughlin, head of the detective bureau, and counsel both for Rothstein's relatives and for the executors of the will the gambler signed with his mark on a death bed, figured in the day's happenings.

The mayor revealed that for the past week he had been inquiring into the murder through investigators inside and outside the city police department. The chief executive's interest in the case, it appeared, had spurred the police to even greater activity, and a general shakedown in the police department was said to be a possibility.

Commissioner Warren, asked about rumors that he planned to resign or leave town for a few days because of ill health, replied: "Why no. My health is quite all right."

Mr. Banton revealed that he had examined 150 witnesses in his quest for information in the case, but that opinion differed as to whether three or four persons were present in the hotel room in which Rothstein is believed to have been shot early on November 11.

Administrators Asked.

Inspector Coughlin issued instructions to detectives of the precinct in which the slaying occurred to dig for information as to whether three or four persons were present in the hotel room in which Rothstein is believed to have been shot early on November 11.

BOND COMMISSION

AND COUNCIL HIT

BY SCHOOL BOARD

Parsimony in Allocation of Funds to Negro Schools Is Charged by Alderman Couch.

City council and the Atlanta bond commission were attacked Tuesday at the regular monthly meeting of the Atlanta board of education.

Council again will receive a proposal to award a contract for erection of new units to the Rockdale negro school in the fifth ward as a result of the board's action, and the bond commission will be notified that in the future all communications from that body must bear the signature of Henderson Hallman, secretary, or Frank H. Neely, chairman. Council also was scored for having authorized a bond election without including school bonds. The latter attack was launched by Commissioner James W. Maddox.

Discussion of the Rockdale project was precipitated when Commissioner Maddox, of the fifth ward, chairman of a special committee considering the improvement.

Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth, chairman of the school committee of city council, insisted that the matter be sent back to the council and "place the responsibility where it belongs, if there is any responsibility attached in failure to approve the proposal."

Mr. Couch charged in his address that the board, the commission and council had been parsimonious in allocation of funds for improvement of negro schools and insisted that the board discharge "its obligations in this matter."

"Politics should be eliminated in this effort to do something for those who cannot help themselves," Mr. Couch declared. "We should be unanimous enough to see that the negroes are treated fairly. The only thing they can do is to come to this body and ask us. If we refuse, they have no recourse."

The paper was returned to council by a vote of nine to four, Council will decline to recognize as official any future communications from the commission which do not bear the signatures of the recognized heads of the commission, either Mr. Neely or Mr. Hallman.

Claims Self-Defense.

R. L. Weaver, of a Josephine street address, was indicted Tuesday by the Fulton grand jury on a charge of the murder of Tom C. Davis, street car motorman, of 399 Louisville avenue. Davis died Sunday night from a slash-throat after Weaver wielded a knife on the motorman, according to the true bill.

The slaying was said by police to have grown out of an altercation over a poker game at the home of W. E. Nall, 152 Edgewood avenue. Witnesses who testified before the grand jury were: Nall, Fred DeLong, 491 Jones avenue, S. W.; B. W. Padgett, 111 1-2 Edgewood avenue, N. E.; H. F. Everett, 408 Glenwood, S. E.; J. E. The true bill charges that the two youths were engaged in the unlawful act of shooting a pistol in the city limits, in one count, and in a second count alleges that they were shooting

Lava Stream Shuts Off

Travel Between Messina

and Catania in 12-Day

Flow.

Catania, Sicily, November 13.—(AP) Scientists and non-expert observers agreed today that the demon of Mount Etna probably had wrought its worst from the present 12-day eruption of the volcano. They found, moreover, that the loss probably would aggregate about $18,500,000.

The work of reconstruction has already been planned, chiefly in the way of mapping out new transportation routes around the fresh lava deposits. The Italian engineer corps, which has been busy for 10 days, found itself confronted with another task this afternoon.

The lava reached the road over which passengers had been ferried in commission to trains on the other side of the main lava stream. This shut off that route of communication between Messina and Catania. The engineers started construction of a new road 150 feet below the demolished one. The route is essential for maintenance of the economy of life of Sicily's four million population.

In reaching the total damage figures, nearly $8,500,000 were allowed for devastation of forests, about $3,000,000 for destruction of agricultural lands and more than $2,500,000 for interruption of traffic and consequent loss of commerce. Destruction of buildings, roads, bridges, railways and wire lines added up the balance.

Director Malladra, of the Vesuvius observatory, today returned from the eruptive area with confirmation that the activity has unfortunately diminished.

"Unless the unforeseen happens, he predicts a complete cessation within two or three days."

METHODISTS OPEN

ANNUAL SESSIONS

AT WESLEY TODAY

Year of Progress and Development in North Georgia Conference To Be Reported to Gathering.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.
Atlanta Methodism will be strongly to the fore today in the first day's sitting of the North Georgia Methodist conference, which is to convene at 9 o'clock this morning at Wesley Memorial church. Dr. S. P. Wiggins, presiding elder of the North Atlanta district; Dr. J. S. Jenkins, presiding elder of the South Atlanta district; Mrs. Charles R. Fox, north Atlanta district secretary of the Woman's Missionary society, and Mrs. J. C. White, secretary of the Woman's society in the South Atlanta district, will make reports showing that the year in the immediate Atlanta section has been one of development and growth in every phase of church enterprise.

Dr. Wiggins, who succeeds the late Rev. W. L. Pore as presiding elder, will report to the conference that more than 500 conversions have occurred during the year, while some 1,202 accessions to the church membership by certificate have been realized. He will report unusual growth in Sunday school enrollment, especially at Jefferson Street church, where Rev. Y. A. Beall is pastor in charge.

CHEST'S AGENCIES

Public Will Have Opportunity To Inspect Local

Charitable Institutions

Next Sunday Afternoon

Atlanta's charity problems and the expert human methods of dealing with them will be displayed to the public Sunday afternoon at the office, home, or clinic of every one of the 38 organizations supported through the Community Chest.

At each of these institutions, open house will be observed, as a preliminary to the campaign for public support of the chest's broad program of social service and helpfulness, which will begin Monday. It is the design of the chest, according to Horace Russell, chairman of a committee arranging these public visitations, to give through practical demonstration an account of its stewardship of the money which Atlanta gives for social welfare work.

From 2:30 until 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon every home and office will be open to the public. Trained workers will be there to receive visitors and explain the methods of operation. Definite cases will be considered. Definite cases will be considered. Definite cases will be considered.

"We should like every citizen to visit these homes and offices," Mr. Russell told a group of campaign workers yesterday afternoon. "The Community Chest and its 38 organizations constitute an establishment for public service. It and its societies are agencies of the public, and they bespeak the public confidence and warm public interest."

"We want the public to know with definite assurance that the Community Chest, serving Atlanta's needs of constructive human relief, has been placed on a basis of greater efficiency, economy, and business methods than ever before," said H. M. Atkinson, president of the chest, addressing yesterday afternoon a meeting of volunteer workers enlisted for the campaign to solicit public support of the chest's program of welfare and helpfulness, which opens Monday.

Of Vestris Sinking

BY P. SCHUCH.

Abandon the S. S. Berlin, November 13.—(Via Radio).—The S. S. Vestris sank suddenly while the passengers were attempting to get into lifeboats, according to Henry Schultz, a third class passenger who was picked up with 21 other men by the crew of this ship.

The ship sank within 60 seconds after starting the final plunge.

As the vessel turned lazily on her side and dropped under the water, passengers who had been unable to climb in the lifeboats already cast loose leaped over the sides of the ship. Some of them were picked up by those in the lifeboats.

Describes Sinking.

The lifeboats on the port side of the Vestris were crowded with men, women and children when the vessel turned and sank. Occupants of the three boats were lost.

The loss of the port-side boats accounted for the greatest loss of life, survivors said.

The sinking was described by Schultz as follows:

"The Vestris had a little starboard list when she left New York Sunday and rough weather caused more and more list. Monday morning the engines were stopped and at about 8 a. m. women and children were ordered to the upper deck.

"The ship was drifting and the crew started throwing the cargo overboard but it proved useless. We had no coffee and no warm breakfast. There was just bread and cheese in the third-class dining room.

"By noon the dining room was under water and officers assisted in clearing boats but three crowded boats on the port side sank with the Vestris. The end of the disaster came very quickly while passengers tried to go into boats.

"The ship just laid over on her starboard side and sank within one minute without any explosion.

"I was caught on the deck as she sank and, with two negroes, jumped into the water," Schultz continued.

"We managed to swim to boat number 13 which swung away from the Vestris unoccupied. The big loss of life was due to the sinking of the three port side boats with the ship."

All in Life Preservers.

"We picked up 19 other men in our boat. The men were swimming in the water, having been forced to jump for their lives as we did. I saw no women swimming.

"Every passenger had put on a life preserver at 9 a. m. Monday. Weather

Tell Victims They Are Seeking

Whisky, Then Take Money.

Posing as prohibition enforcement officers three unmasked white thugs late Tuesday night stopped B. H. Gassaway and George Hendrix, of 793 Harrell avenue, as they drove along Piedmont road, near the railroad trestle, and robbed them of approximately $275 at the point of a shotgun.

The victims reported to Detectives Austin and Armstrong that a large car with the three men in it drew up beside their machine and one of the thieves ordered Gassaway to pull up to the curb saying, "We want to search that car for whisky." Gassaway complied, and the other car also stopped, one of the men climbing out of the tonneau with a shotgun in his hand.

The victims then demanded to know the meaning of the gun and one of the bandits informed them that the "search for whisky" was to be a search for money. Accordingly the third member of the trio rifled the pockets of the two men while one of his companions held the gun and the other sat at the steering wheel. The robbery completed the bandits jumped into their machine and sped away with a warning to their victims.

One Life Raft Still Unaccounted for and One Lifeboat Capsized, Is Latest Report.

BY MORRIS DEHAVEN TRACY.
United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, November 13.—(United News).—The sea that claimed the Lampart & Holt liner Vestris has taken with the ship a quota of human life which tonight, it was feared, might run to 132.

All Monday night and Tuesday a dozen rescue ships patrolled the scene where the liner foundered. Tonight they had taken from the flimsy life boats and rafts and from the water 206 of the 328 persons who on Saturday left New York as passengers and crew of the steamship.

But 122 others remained unaccounted for and as the darkness of Tuesday night spread over the still tossing sea, hope of saving those still unaccounted for could be based on little more than faith that a miracle might be performed. A lone life raft and bits of wreckage which might hold up a survivor were the object of desperate search.

The rescue fleet which during the morning sent word ashore as one message after another told of lives saved, could report but little during the afternoon and as night settled down came the grim word from the U. S. S. Wyoming.

"Number of dead slighted."

Survivors Taken to Port.

Those few words brought tragic pictures to mind of bodies floating on ugly seas; amid wreckage of lifeboats and rafts and of the Vestris. Six lifeboats had been rescued and in one of them were the survivors of another which had capsized.

With that word, however, the night was drawn once more about the spot some 250 miles off the Virginia coast where the liner ended its final trip.

Already the Hamburg-American liner, the Vestris, with 25 of the survivors aboard and the American Merchant liner American Shipper with 37 surviving passengers and 87 survivors from the crew, had reported they were proceeding towards New York where both will arrive Wednesday morning.

The French tanker Myrian, carrying Captain W. J. Carey of the Vestris, and 52 passengers and crew, also was reported to have gone on its way, its work of mercy done.

There remained, keeping grim watch over the seas, their signal lights flashing and searchlights reaching out like states that the district this year will pay $11,856 as a special offering for missionary maintenance, and that there will be a large advance over last year in the matter of benevolent offerings and pastoral support.

Good Revivals Held.
He will report good revivals in the district. The Druid Hills church, Dr. R. L. Russell pastor, has received more than 110 new members by profession of faith. Epworth leagues and missionary societies will make the best reports of their histories.

In the north section of the district building enterprises have been promoted, especially at Patillo Memorial, Haygood Memorial, Peachtree Road, Jefferson Street, Underwood Memorial, Epworth church, Ingleside and Saria.

Dr. John S. Jenkins, presiding over the southern section of Atlanta Methodism, will report a larger number of conversions for this year than has been reported in former years, there being more than 700 new converts enrolled as church members, while nearly a thousand new members were received by certificate. The Park Street church, Rev. Marvin Franklin, pastor, leads the district with 205 accessions, while the St. John church, Rev. V. E. Lanford, pastor, follows with 150 accessions. The Mary Brannen Memorial church, with Rev. C. E. McDaniel, pastor, reports the largest increase in pastor's salary, and also leads the district in members among the smaller churches.

Financial Support Good.
Dr. Jenkins' report today will show financial support to be good, more money having been raised for all purposes than last year, with a special missionary maintenance offering in the springtime.

He will emphasize the building activities in the district during the past 12 months. Hapeville is erecting a $30,000 church, Judge John D. Humphries and Colonel Joe Humphries having donated a plot of ground for the structure. The Lakewood Heights church is erecting a $30,000 Sunday school house, while the Martha Brown Memorial church is spending $20,000 for the same purpose. Jones chapel and Bethel church are also promoting new building programs, while East Point and East End churches have just completed $7,000 parsonages at each place. Kirkwood and St. John churches have paid off obligations on former building work and the Capitol View congregation has just moved into its new church plant.

Thirty women of the two Atlanta districts have been unusually active during the year, due to the jubilee celebration, wherein the founding of the women's work 50 years ago was fittingly commemorated and efforts made in further achievements.

Pledge Raised in Full.
Mrs. Charles M. Fox, district secretary for the northern section, is well pleased with the showing of her district in the jubilee pledge drive. She will report one new auxiliary at Mayson church on the Bethany charge, and the enrollment of 272 new adult members for the year. Young People's societies and baby divisions are found in practically each adult auxiliary.

Under Mrs. Fox's leadership the women of the northern district have this year given special attention to spiritual cultivation and prayer and gratifying results have been accomplished. A special week of prayer was observed last week and special offering taken for the support of educating workers for home and foreign fields.

Mrs. J. C. White, district secretary of the women's work in the South Atlanta district, will report gratifying success of the year's efforts in that section, in which practically every missionary society cooperated. Mrs. White will report an enrollment this year of 935 new members and four new auxiliaries organized and two jubilee auxiliaries, one at St. Paul church and another at St. Paul church. The total society membership in that district is now said to be 5,000, with a grand total of all members raised this year amounting to $27,489.

Missionary Society Work.
The South Atlanta district missionary societies are now sponsoring 23 societies, among which are one day school in China, six Bible women, 14 foreign scholarships, seven home scholarships and one missionary in Cuba. The College Park society is a pioneer in women's work in that it consolidated its home and foreign work prior to legal enactment authorizing such a move.

Pre-conference activities were observed around Wesley Memorial church all day Tuesday, where several boards and committees are now formulating reports to be submitted later in the week. The board of education, Judge John S. Candler president, held a special session Tuesday that was attended by the district's prominent Methodist laymen from different parts of the state.

Five classes of undergraduate ministers and applicants for admission on trial appeared before their respective committee during the day for a review of their studies and labors during the year.

First Year Class.
Members of the first year class appeared before Revs. W. W. Carroll, W. H. Clark and C. D. Reed. Men of that class are Revs. J. E. Holbrook, E. P. Driskell, J. A. Davis, C. A. Burns, W. H. Gardner, R. W. Hancock, W. W. Tabb, R. H. Timberlake, J. E. Foster, J. M. Thompson, W. A. Langley and H. A. Dillard.

Revs. J. B. Smith, N. C. McPherson, A. E. Barton, E. D. Rudisill, W. E. Lunderson, G. B. Henderson, C. H. Ramsey, A. W. Williams, S. H. Dixon, R. W. Stone, J. K. Dean, R. L. Johnson, T. E. Sherwood, J. G. Lupo, J. L. Varner, R. B. Hawkins, N. A. Parsons and J. M. Perry were examined by Revs. W. M. Twigg, M. B. Sams and F. S. Hudson as the second year examining committee.

Revs. J. H. Barton, J. E. Davis and A. P. Watkins composed the third year examining committee and had to appear before them the following men: Revs. V. F. Taylor, L. L. Birch, W. F. Walden, C. H. Hayes, Jr., N. P. Manning, H. C. Stratton, B. N. McHize, R. W. Allison, C. W. Fruit, D. C. Starnes, C. G. Jones, J. F. Young, W. L. Brackman, J. W. Jolly, J. E. Ward, C. A. Reese, W. J. Bryson, W. E. Fourth Year Class.
Members of the fourth year class are Revs. M. M. Maxwell, J. M. Guest, S. A. Danley, E. O. Vickery, J. W. Lee, P. A. Turner, J. K. Kelley, W. E. Stetson and J. W. Wood. They were examined by Revs. J. M. Radford, J. R. Turner and F. E. Crutcher.

A new class of young men applying for admission on trial into the conference were examined by the committees on admissions and applicants composed of Revs. T. J. Christian, G. F. Venable, J. C. Adams, J. G. Davis, H. S. Smith, E. G. Thompson, W. G. Crawley, S. A. Hamilton, E. M. Sullivan, S. A. Harris, A. Erner and R. C. Cline. Rev. M. Twigg represented the committee on applicants, the other two members, Rev. A. M. Sprabery and Rev. W. L. Pierce having died during the year.

The class of new men applying for admission consists of 15 young men, all of whom desire to enter the itinerant Methodist ministry, and having received the recommendations of their district conferences. Young men in this class are as follows: Lloyd Greer Hendricks, of Atlanta; Frank Quillian Echols, of Emory university; Luther Blake Craft, of Oglethorpe university; E. C. Harris, of Ringgold; Henry Clay Ayers, of Africa, formerly of LaGrange; Leslie McEwen, of Atlanta; H. G. Zoeller, of Atlanta; R. P. Segars, of Whitehall; H. L. G. ley, of Canon; Nathaniel Guy Long, of Jefferson; Julian Clyde Callaway, of Inman; Howard Augustus McNeil, of Newnan; V. O. Gentry, of Milledgeville; F. L. VanLandingham, of Macon; and J. W. Segars, of Douglasville.

Tuesday Meetings.
Highly important meetings of the day Tuesday were those of the conference board of education. Judge John S. Candler, president. Reports from presidents of educational institutions under the control of this conference were submitted to the board. Those thus represented were Emory university, by Dr. Harvey W. Cox; Wesleyan college, by Dr. W. E. Quillen; Lafayette college, by President W. E. Thompson; Reinhardt college, by Prof. W. M. Bratton; and Young Harris college, by Dr. J. A. Sharp.

In the session of the mission board decision was made to ask that Dr. Wallace Rogers, pastor of Trinity church, Atlanta, be appointed as secretary. Dr. Rogers' selection for this post received the hearty endorsement of the board, and his appointment will be confirmed by the conference.

At 7:30 Tuesday night the conference members who had reached the city assembled at Wesley Memorial church for the anniversary of the Widows and Orphans Aid association, a fraternal organization embracing practically every clerical member of the conference and a good number of laymen. Rev. A. J. Sears, of the Atlanta Mount Vernon church, president.

Reverend Sears was reelected president of the association, with Dr. R. P. Dempsey, of Oxford, vice president. Dr. W. T. Hunnicutt, of Atlanta, was reelected secretary-treasurer. Motions were adopted by the association seeking to increase the membership. Permission will be asked for an opportunity to present the cause before the annual conference body, and men will be appointed in each district to present the matter at district conferences.

Conference Opens Today.
The annual conference will open formally at 9 o'clock today, with Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, presiding. After organization the conference will hear reports from the presiding elders of the 12 districts in the conference territory. During the afternoon Dr. H. C. Calkins, of Nashville, will deliver the first of his series of lectures on the subject, "Property and Personality."

Many in Atlanta will remember Dr. Harvey Reeves Calkins' stirring address on "The Heart of Hinduism," delivered last March in the First Baptist church with Governor Hardman as the chief guest. Many others will recall his scholarly addresses on "Stewardship" at All Saints' Episcopal church under the presidency of Dr. Beauchamp, and his address on "The Heart of Hinduism," delivered last March in the First Baptist church with Governor Hardman as the chief guest.

Dr. Calkins here, at the invitation of Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, Dr. Calkins again is in Atlanta and will deliver four lectures before the North Georgia conference, in session this week at Wesley Memorial church. The general subject of the lectures is "Property and Personality," and the first address will be delivered this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

"Who's Who" places Dr. Calkins among the most prominent public men in the United States, crediting him with the authorship of many notable books and indicating that he first went as a missionary to India in the year 1900, and since that time he has been a member of the United States foreign mission council and has been called the "grandfather" of the modern stewardship movement. He was stewardship secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church from 1912 to 1920. On his return to India for his recent term of service he spent a year and a half in China, where he was special lecturer at the United States, credited with the authorship of many notable books and indicating that he first went as a missionary to India in the year 1900, and since that time he has been a member of the United States foreign mission council and has been called the "grandfather" of the modern stewardship movement.

Board of Missions.
The special program for the conference evening session today is devoted to the interest of the conference board of missions. The program arranged for the evening is one of the most interesting of the entire week.

Dr. W. A. Shelton, of Emory university, is president of the mission board, and will preside. Bishop W. B. Beauchamp will be the chief speaker of the occasion. Representatives of the Southern Baptist mission board and the Southern Presbyterian mission board will occupy seats on the platform. A group of Chinese girls from Wesleyan college will be present and take part in the program. Also foreign students of Emory university will be heard.

Dr. S. P. Wiggins, retiring secretary of the mission board, will read the annual report, which is said to contain evidence of unusual missionary activity among north Georgia Methodists, and which report will make recommendations for promoting the work, especially in industrial centers.

Heretofore the conference sessions have been greatly disturbed by persons gathering in the rear of the main floor, thus interfering with the service. The Wesley Memorial congregation has undertaken to offset this trouble at this session by erecting in the rear of the ground floor a soundproof partition wall reaching from the floor to the overhead ceiling. This will very materially improve conditions and will be sincerely appreciated by the conference body.

Mortuary
BENJAMIN S. PRICE.
Funeral services for Benjamin S. Price, of 915 Virginia avenue, who died Monday night at a local hospital, will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of the First Baptist church. The Rev. R. L. Russell will be in charge and burial will be in West View cemetery. Mrs. Price is survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. G. Price and a son, Mrs. Charles Johnson.

CHARLES R. HARDIN.
Charles R. Hardin, 62, of 778 Delmar avenue, died at a local hospital Tuesday morning. He is survived by his widow, five daughters, Mrs. J. M. Callahan, Mrs. E. J. Durrell, Mrs. J. B. Durrell, Mrs. H. Hardin and Mrs. L. B. Bettis and a son, Mr. H. Hardin. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

MISS KATE WRIGHT.
Funeral services for Miss Kate Wright, who died Tuesday at a local hospital, will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of the First Baptist church. Burial will be in West View cemetery. Mrs. Wright is survived by no close relatives.

MRS. ELIZABETH SULLIVAN.
Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan, 64-year-old native of Atlanta, who died at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue Tuesday afternoon, will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the Sacred Heart church. The Rev. Father William Hanlon will be in charge and burial will be in the Sacred Heart cemetery. Mrs. Sullivan was a member of the Sacred Heart church for many years. She is survived by sons, Charles and Norton Sullivan; two brothers, Edward and John Malone and three sisters, Mrs. E. E. Green, Mrs. G. W. Oliver and Mrs. W. J. Lynch.

Methodist Conference Leaders

DR. S. P. WIGGINS.
Presiding Elder North Atlanta District.DR. J. S. JENKINS.
Presiding Elder South Atlanta District.RIDING THE CIRCUIT
BY THE METHODIST CONFERENCE
By Thos. M. Elliott

When the North Georgia Methodist conference assembles today at Wesley Memorial church for their 62nd annual session nine familiar faces will be missing, since that number of deaths has occurred during the year. Those who have died, and whom the conference will honor today by standing in silence as their names are called, are as follows: Dr. S. R. Belk, of Atlanta; Rev. W. O. Butler, of Atlanta; Rev. R. M. Dixon, of Roswell; Rev. W. L. Pierce, of Atlanta; Rev. J. W. Rivers, of Greenwood; S. C. Rev. R. W. Rogers, of Zebulon; Rev. Lucien Roper, of Palmetto; Rev. A. M. Sprabery, of Barnsville; and Rev. G. W. Tammie of Tallapoosa. A special memorial session will be held next Sunday afternoon in honor of these ministers and the wives of pastors who have passed away during the year. This is the largest number of conference members to die in one year since 1920, when a similar number passed away. The year 1891 recorded the largest number of deaths in the history of the conference, when 11 died that year. The years 1912 and 1914 recorded 10 deaths each.

Of the 179 lay delegates elected to attend the conference 43 of them are women. And of these seven are wives of ministers. Ministers' wives elected lay representatives are Mrs. J. L. Allgood, from Atlanta; Mrs. H. E. Elmousson, from Elberton; Mrs. W. G. Crawley and Mrs. J. G. Logan, from Gainesville; Mrs. J. H. Barton, from Forsyth; Mrs. J. E. Ellis, from LaGrange; and Mrs. D. Cantrell, from Oxford. This group of 43 women in the conference constitutes the largest number of women ever elected as lay delegates in this conference.

The distinction for long-time consecutive service as a lay delegate to the conference goes to Mrs. J. C. White, of Atlanta, who has been elected to represent the South Atlanta district six times in succession. Mrs. White is district secretary of the Woman's Missionary society in the South Atlanta district, and has enjoyed remarkable success in developing laity work in her district during the several years she has been in the lead.

Three noted men whose faces have been familiar to the annual conference, but who will be missed this year, are Hon. L. S. Ledbetter, of Cedartown; Hon. F. A. Quillian, of Atlanta; and John Shannon, of Commerce. All three of these eminent Methodists died during the year. Mr. Ledbetter was associated with the conference board of church extension. Colonel Quillian was also intimately connected with that board as legal adviser. How and where the late John Shannon, a member of the conference board of missions, he boasted that he had missed a conference session in more than a generation.

With this session of the annual conference Dr. W. P. King, of Athens First church, retires from active pastorate work and will move to Nashville, where he will serve as book editor and editor of the Methodist Quarterly Review, to which position he was elected by the book committee. Dr. King is eminently qualified for the work committed to him, since he has given much attention to writing. Two books from his pen have been published and enjoyed large circulation. His first book, "Practice of the Principles of Jesus," has had several editions issued, while his second book, "Faith in the Divine Fatherhood," was issued this fall. Dr. King is widely known for his writings, since he has also contributed extensively to the religious and secular press.

The North Georgia Methodist conference meets in Atlanta for the fifteenth time since the division of the old Georgia conference. The body met here in 1867, with Bishop Pierce presiding, and again in 1872, with Bishop Marvin as president. Some 12 years passed before the conference came to Atlanta again, in 1884, when Bishop Hendrix was in charge; and after other long intervals came before the body met here again, in 1900, with Bishop Hendrix presiding. Since that time the conference sessions have been held here every few years. Bishop Candler presided in 1902, and Bishop Hendrix again, in 1908. The sessions of 1918, 1919 and 1920 were held here and superintended by Bishop Candler, while those of 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925 were under the direction of Bishops Murray and Dickinson. This session makes the third consecutive one Bishop Beauchamp has been in charge of. The probability is that the conference sessions will continue to be held here for many years to come. Increasing numbers attending the meeting, hotel accommodations and railroad facilities all conspire toward this.

When the North Georgia conference held its first session here in 1867 there were nine presiding elders' districts in the territory; now there are 12. In 1867 there were four Methodist preachers stationed in Fulton county; now there are nearly 50. In 1867 there were 539 churches in the conference; now there are 840. Since 1867 other growths have been as follows: Parsonages, from 42 to 245; church members, from 44,806 to 146,000; Sunday school, from 471 to 725; Sunday school scholars, from 23,810 to 98,000. The little plant put out by John Wesley in 1738 appears to have been a vine of God's own planting.

Atlanta Methodism got its start in a small building located at the corner of Ivy and Houston streets. In 1845 the first protracted meeting was held on the second floor of an old grain building on Wheat street, now Auburn avenue. In September, 1847, Atlanta Methodists held their first quarterly meeting over an old cotton shed where the Grand theater now stands. At that quarterly meeting it was determined to erect a church house, and the following year Bishop James O. Andrews dedicated the first Methodist church ever erected here, known as Wesley chapel. Two years afterwards Wesley chapel was separated from the Decatur circuit and made a separate station. In 1870 a still larger building, erected on the spot where the Candler building now stands, and, in 1871, the name was changed from Wesley chapel to the First Methodist church, of Atlanta. In 1903 that church was moved to its present location, Peachtree street and Porter place. Trinity church was founded in 1853 by Green B. Haygood, in a little house on McDonough street, and a church house was built the following year. In 1864, while Sherman was attacking the city, the church house was closed for two consecutive Sundays, and was used at that time for a storehouse for furniture, until the siege should be over. In 1865, when 11 members could be assembled, the services started anew, and have continued until now.

Rev. W. J. DeBardeleben, of the Atlanta Grant Park Methodist church, is the only preacher ever known to open the doors of the church and receive a member in the lobby of the Candler building. On one occasion he met in the lobby a man desirous of becoming a Methodist member. Mr. DeBardeleben then and there opened the church doors, received the brother into the fellowship of the church. The new convert afterwards became a leading member and worker in Payne Memorial church. Mr. DeBardeleben, on another occasion, opened the church doors and received into the church a new member while in the middle of the big road at Just's old mill near Jonesboro.

TWO ARE AWARDED NOBEL PRIZES

Stockholm, Sweden, November 13. (AP)—Sigrid Undset, Norwegian author, was today awarded the 1928 Nobel prize for literature by the Swedish academy. The 1927 literature prize was awarded to Henri Bergson, a member of the French academy.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR AUTO VICTIM TO BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Leroy Calvin Dyer, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Dyer, of Chamblee, who was killed Monday when he was struck near his home by a large moving van, will be conducted at 2 o'clock today in the Oakhurst Baptist church. The Rev. Fred W. Rollins will officiate and burial will be in East Lake cemetery.

GEORGE C. MORTON, FORMER ATLANTA, DIES IN MIAMI

George C. Morton, former Atlanta and past state commander of the Macabees, died Monday night at a private hospital in Miami after a short illness. He was prominent for many years in fraternal circles of this city, being active in the Masonic lodge as well as in the Macabees.

He is survived by a daughter, Miss Essie Mae Morton, of Atlanta, and a son, Carl C. Morton, of Fort Bragg, N. C. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

DIXIE MANUFACTURERS GATHER HERE NOV. 22

Important Sales Conference
Will Be Held at Biltmore Hotel.

More than 150 industrial leaders have accepted invitations to participate in the first annual southern manufacturers' sales conference, which will open at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel Thursday, November 22, according to Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power company, who is chairman of the conference committee. Many more are expected to be heard from within the next week, Mr. Arkwright said.

Practical methods of increasing sales and doing it at lower cost will be the theme of discussion confronting the the manufacturing executives who attend the conference. The importance of this problem was brought out in a letter from George S. Harris, president of the Exposition Cotton Mills, to manufacturers invited to the conference.

Commenting on this outstanding problem, Hibbard S. Busby, director of the A. French Textile school, of Georgia Tech, declared that the promotion of sales through careful study of market demands is becoming rapidly more important.

The conference is being sponsored by the Atlanta Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, Southern Clay Products association, Southern Furniture Manufacturers' association, and Southern Sash, Door and Millwork Manufacturers' association.

Costly Relish.

Waycross, Ga., November 23.—(Special.)—Leandre Naudreau paid $65 for a pint of prize-winning relish at the Southeast Georgia fair. He stole the relish from a booth in the exposition building, and was carried before Judge J. L. Crawley. He was sentenced to pay $65 or serve six months in the Ware county jail.

A. & P. Officials Here Honor Vice President B. F. Vinson

B. F. Vinson, southern vice president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, is shown here seated in his office surrounded by floral tributes and gifts tendered him by his employees on the recent occasion of his 35th anniversary as an employee of the company.

In recognition of the thirty-fifth anniversary of his enrollment in the company's ranks, B. F. Vinson, southern vice president of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company, recently was signally honored by the executive personnel of his Atlanta forces. Mr. Vinson's office was transformed into a veritable bower by huge bunches of flowers, and a silver loving cup, suitably engraved, was filled with roses and placed on his desk as a gift from his Atlanta employees. A handsome desk set was sent from the Houston, Texas, organization as a token of its esteem.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE SLATED FOR FRIDAY NIGHT

Richard J. Davis, C. S., of Chicago, will speak on Christian Science at 8 o'clock Friday night at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at the corner of Peachtree and Fifteenth streets, it was announced Tuesday.

Mr. Davis, who is a member of the board of trustees of the mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., will lecture on the subject, "Christian Science—A Reasonable and Practical Religion."

The lecture is being given under auspices of the local church, and is open to the public without charge.

ATLANTA WOMEN TO HEAR ANDERSON IN ADDRESS TODAY

W. T. Anderson, editor and owner of the Macon Telegraph, will address a meeting of the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs at 1:30 o'clock today, in the Capital City club. Mr. Anderson will speak on "The Kellogg Treaty."

The federation will begin its session at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Anderson will be the guest of the club for luncheon and the principal speaker of the day. The luncheon address is open to persons desiring to attend, reservations being obtainable through Mrs. J. R. Little.

STELLAR PROGRAM OFFERED PATRONS OF THE RITZ CLUB

Patrons of the Ritz night club who attend tonight's festivities at the popular urban rendezvous will be offered one of the best programs of entertainment ever staged by the club, according to information from the management.

Many special attractions have been arranged for the enjoyment of guests, and tonight's show is expected to attract a capacity crowd. The exact nature of the program has not been announced, but it is understood that one of Broadway's outstanding song and dance artists has been imported to head the bill. This headliner who has been engaged for a series of performances at the Ritz comes direct from the Silver Chopper, the city's best-known night club, it is said. Several interesting dance and song numbers have been arranged with a "hula" dance climaxing the presentations.

The management has decided to discontinue the regular Monday and Tuesday night shows, but will run each night from Wednesday through Saturday. This method of operation will enable Manager Miller to bring to the club more talented entertainers, and it is also expected that consistently large crowds will attend in the future. Billy Snell continues to act in the capacity of master of ceremonies, and the Ritz Harmony boys will furnish dance music.

JUSTICE OF PEACE CONTESTS LOOMING IN FULTON COUNTY

Four contests over Fulton county justice of the peace posts loomed Tuesday, when it was announced by Claude C. Mason, of the ordinary's office, that candidates have qualified for the magistrate positions in ten of the 15 militia districts of the county.

The contests will be between the following candidates: J. A. Fuller and G. D. Byrd, Buckhead district; John M. Baird, incumbent, William D. Newman, and Clark Ray, Center Hill; R. C. Blackmon, incumbent, and J. C. Hudgins, Collins; Walter A. Addy, incumbent, A. L. Williams and J. O. Perry, Jr., Cooks.

Other candidates for justice of the peace, thus far unopposed, are: W. E. Hixon, Adamsville; R. R. Jackson, Edgewood; H. A. Godby, College Park; J. C. McKenzie, East Point; D. M. Haynes, South Bend, and J. H. Zering, Pooles.

The following candidates have registered for the post of constable or bailiff, two to be elected in each district: W. J. Windsoe, Center Hill; James A. Godby, College Park; Claude L. Underwood, William V. Fuller, E. D. Bonta and R. H. Bryce, Cooks; V. B. Brown, East Point; and J. E. Herren, Thomas Lamb, T. O. Kelly, W. H. Peek and V. M. Millsap, Pooles. Entries will close Thursday and the election will be held on December 1.

RIGHT TO APPEAL LOST BY FAILURE TO TRANSMIT BILL

Because the clerk of the superior court of Bacon county failed to transmit a bill of exceptions in time in a case appealed from that court to the court of appeals the plaintiff's right of appeal was irretrievably lost, according to a decision of the court of appeals handed down Tuesday. In this case the clerk should have transmitted the bill of exceptions during the appellate court session ending July 3, 1927, but instead he did not transmit the papers until one year later. The decision was rendered in the case of D. P. Gresham against the Grocers Finance corporation.

Annual "Book Week" Is Being Observed In Local Schools

The observance of national "Book Week" is receiving much emphasis in Atlanta schools and programs are being planned for the instruction of students in booklore and the use of books are playing a prominent part in the observance.

The observance in each school is left entirely in the hands of each school principal and as a result programs of great variety are being planned at the various institutions. In some schools parades of characters from great books will be staged by the children. In others, playlets depicting episodes in the lives of famous literary personages, will be put on by the students. Essay contests on books and competitions in slogan writing and posters for the stimulation of interest in good books are some of the other activities that will mark the week.

In all instances the children are being urged to use the libraries and to take advantage of the many opportunities offered to them in the way of reading matter.

'METROPOLITAN AREA' MEET WILL BE HELD

Officials of Territory Embraced To Discuss Question at Dinner Tonight.

Fixing the boundaries of Atlanta's "metropolitan area," that the population and industry of this 190 square miles of territory may all be included in the 1930 census figures, will be discussed tonight at the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce by officials of the territory embraced in the area.

Maps showing the territory in all its detail have been prepared by the chamber of commerce, and will be submitted to interested officials at a luncheon to begin at 6 o'clock, in the main dining room of the chamber. When given final approval the maps and data will be sent to the census bureau at Washington, and if the bureau accepts them the census takers in 1930 will cover this territory thoroughly.

Invited to the luncheon to discuss the metropolitan area proposal are officials, including councilmen, of both the counties and all the municipalities involved. The area extends into Fulton and DeKalb counties, and also takes in East Point, Hapeville, College Park, Decatur, Avondale, Clarkston and Scottdale. The proposed boundary extends to the Chattahoochee river on the northwest, takes in the Buckhead district and a large area north of Decatur. The present city limits of Atlanta take in only about 35 square miles. The metropolitan area as proposed covers 190 square miles.

Preparations for census taking in this metropolitan area has no relation to any plans for annexing additional territory by Atlanta or the extension of corporate limits, it is pointed out by Horace Russell, vice president of the chamber of commerce and chairman of the Greater Atlanta committee. It will make no change in political lines or tax assessments or rates. The boundary will be an imaginary line which will surround virtually all the important industrial enterprises and the population adjacent to Atlanta, and will give this city a fair comparison with others when the census figures for 1930 are given out.

FOREIGN TRADE MEET

Members Urged To Attend Luncheon at Noon Today.

An important meeting of the Atlanta Foreign Trade club, which all members are urged to attend, is announced by President Charles F. Hoke for 12:30 o'clock today at the chamber of commerce. This luncheon, according to Mr. Hoke, will be the final get-together before the Southeastern World Trade conference, which will convene in Atlanta next Tuesday for a two days session, bringing delegates from all parts of the southeast.

Final arrangements will be made for the reception and entertainment of visitors and it is important that there be a full attendance.

QUICK RELIEF FOR COLDS
SINCE 1889

GROVE'S
BROMO QUININE
LAXATIVE TABLETS

Won't dance with a sneezer

Who would blame a young lady for refusing to dance with a man who had a cold? Why should she risk infection for one so inconsiderate of others, so indifferent to etiquette and to his own condition.

Social, and business reasons too, demand that colds be thrown off quickly. To do that, millions of people take GROVE'S BROMO QUININE at the first warning signal—a sneeze or dry throat, a headache or a stopped-up feeling. Thus they frequently side-step the cold entirely, while fortifying the system against grip and influenza.

Experience beyond compare, and the facilities and resources of the world's largest maker, explain the ever-growing leadership of the original cold and grip tablet. To make sure of getting it, emphasize GROVE'S in asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

CONGREGATIONAL BODY OPENS SESSIONS HERE

Six Southeastern Conferences
Are Represented in Advisory Board Meeting.

Representatives from the six Congregational conferences of the southeast, as well as from senior colleges, a junior college, academies and two theological seminaries, assembled in Atlanta Tuesday at the Central Congregational church for the eighth annual meeting of the Congregational advisory board of the southeast in joint session with the regional committee of the commission on missions, with Dr. C. Rexford Raymond, chairman of the advisory board presiding. The meeting is not held in nature, but has as its province the discussion and formulation of policies for the coming year and will include registering the attitude of the southeastern conference on the proposed merger of the Congregational church with the old Christian church, which would give a total national membership of more than 1,000,000. This question, which is scheduled for action some time during the day, probably will be recommended, it was stated, since it already has received favorable action by state and local organizations.

The morning session Tuesday opened with the devotional, led by Dr. J. Edward Kirby, which was followed by brief surveys of the Carolinas, Kentucky and Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and West Florida, which were presented by the various conference superintendents. W. Knighton Bloom spoke on "Our Washington Window" and a survey of "Our National Work" was given by General Secretary Ernest M. Halliday.

HARDMAN TO HEAR EULA THOMPSON'S FINAL PLEA TODAY

Governor L. G. Hardman, who has been spending a short vacation in south Georgia, will return to Atlanta today and will hear a final plea for clemency to be submitted to him in behalf of Mrs. Eula Elrod Thompson, of Chatsworth, now under a death sentence following her conviction of complicity in the killing of Coleman Osborne.

Clifford Thompson, husband of Mrs. Thompson, and Jim Hugh Moss, a negro, were executed at Milledgeville recently following their conviction of complicity in the killing of Osborne. Governor Hardman granted Mrs. Thompson a sixty-day respite, which expires Tuesday, November 20. If the governor does not commute the death sentence she will be taken before the trial judge who will resentence her.

MISS KEMP THORNE TO CONDUCT MEET OF CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Miss Edith Kempthorne, national secretary of the Camp Fire Girls of America, has been secured to conduct the organization's first regional conference which is being held here this week. It was announced Tuesday by local officials.

The conference will have many features of worth and interest incorporated in its schedule, including a training course for leaders, courses in handicraft, games, nature lore, and domestic science. Miss Kempthorne has been active in the Camp Fire Girls work for more than fifteen years, and is competent and charming in personality.

"ARBOR DAY" PLANS

Miss Baxter Urges Women's Clubs To Observe Day.

Observance of "Arbor Day," December 7, by the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs was urged in a statement issued Tuesday by Miss Alice Baxter, chairman of the forests committee. She urged that communities, clubs and civic organizations of all kinds do all in their power to see that tree planting of a style suited to their communities be done on that day.

MILLER TO HEAD NEW WOOLWORTH DISTRICT IN EAST

Concrete evidence of the tremendous strides being made in the southeast is indicated by the choice of E. H. Miller, district manager for E. W. Woolworth company, to take entire charge of the new district to be established January 1, 1929, by this national organization in Philadelphia. The splendid showing made by Mr. Miller's organization throughout North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Cuba during the last eight years, when he has been in charge, largely contributed to his selection for the organization of the state of New Jersey and the cities of Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

Eight of the 24 years during which Mr. Miller has been an executive of E. W. Woolworth company have been spent in Atlanta, where he and his family have made many business and personal friends. He is a member of the Druid Hills, Capital City and Atlanta Athletic clubs, and maintains his beautiful home at 905 Springdale road in Druid Hills.

While establishment of this new district with headquarters in Philadelphia is merely another step in the extraordinary expansion of this national chain of stores, it has required extensive changes in the organization that the successor to Mr. Miller for the Atlanta headquarters at 101 Marietta street is not yet ready for announcement, but is expected in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller and their family will not leave Atlanta until early in January, 1929.

WOULD SET ASIDE WILL OF THE LATE S. DAVIES WARFIELD

Baltimore, Md., November 13.—(AP) Caveat proceedings to set aside a will of the late S. Davies Warfield, banker and railroad president, who left the bulk of an estate exceeding $5,000,000 to found an institution for the aged in memory of his mother, were filed in orphans' court today.

The caveat, brought by a grand niece, Miss Josephine Metcalf, Warfield, not yet of age, declares Mr. Warfield died intestate because the will was invalid in that it was not signed by him and was not executed when he was of sound and disposing mind. It also states it was not his last will.

Second Transfusion

Aids Quillian Bone,

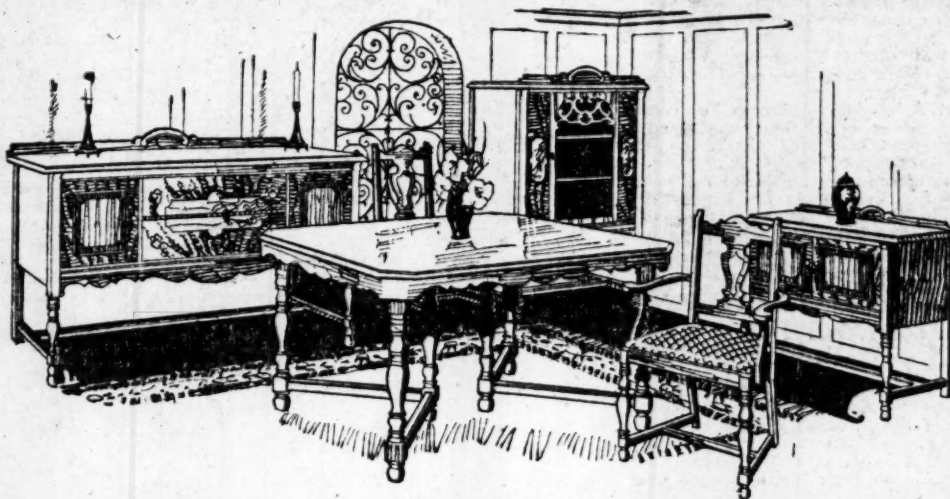

Victim of Poison Gas

Doctors at Grady hospital Tuesday night were hopeful that Quillian Bone would win his long fight against the effects of poison gas after a blood transfusion had been performed Tuesday morning, with Ben T. Huie, councilman and alderman-elect from the third ward, giving the ex-service man more than a pint of the vital fluid.

Bone seemed to be much strengthened by the operation, which took about an hour, and Councilman Huie quit the operating table to continue with his daily duties, apparently glad to have had the opportunity to help the suffering man. Huie, himself, was a soldier during the recent war, having served in France as a lieutenant. He now is a captain in the Georgia National Guard.

Bone was gassed during the war and for more than 10 years has been forced to combat the sinister effects of the poison. The blood transfusion performed Tuesday was his second within the past 10 days. O. T. Smith, an employee in The Constitution's composition room, underwent a similar operation with the ex-doughboy on November 5.

FERTILIZER MEN CLOSE SESSIONS HERE TODAY

Muscle Shoals To Be Discussed as Final Feature of Annual Convention.

"Muscle Shoals and the Fertilizer Industry" will be the theme of discussion confronting the large gathering of fertilizer men at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel today, when the fourth annual southern convention of the National Fertilizer association is brought to a close.

Charles H. MacDowell, president of the Armour Fertilizer Works, of Chicago, will preside at the concluding session, which will be featured by addresses by Dr. F. M. Bear, head of the department of soils, Ohio State University; H. C. Bowler, head of the American Agricultural Chemical company, New York; Chester H. Grady, American Farm Bureau Federation, Washington, D. C.; and Charles J. Brand, executive secretary of the National Fertilizer association.

Dr. Bear to Speak.

"The Nitrogen Situation" will be the topic of the talk by Dr. Bear, at opening of the third day session, at 10 o'clock today. This will be followed by Mr. Bowler's address on "Past and Pending Legislative Proposals Regarding Muscle Shoals." "Agriculture's Position on Muscle Shoals," will be the subject of Mr. Grady's talk, while Mr. Brand will discuss "Government Relations to Our Industry."

Featuring the address and discussion Tuesday afternoon, will be a problem of promoting industrial welfare through advertising. Major I. D. Carson, of N. W. Ayer & Son, national advertising agency, outlined the "Co-operative Market Development and Industry Protection," in one of the outstanding addresses of the convention. This was followed by L. W. Rowell's talk on "Making Individual Company Advertising Work for the Common Good." Mr. Rowell is of Swift & Company.

Pridmore Delivers Address.

The opening address of the afternoon session was delivered by J. C. Pridmore, of Atlanta, a director of the association, "European Agriculture and Fertilizer Practices," was the subject of his talk. In his address on "Present Advertising Activities of the Fertilizer Industry," Harry C. Butcher, managing editor of the Fertilizer Review, pointed to deficiency of advertising in the industry, urging that a higher percentage of receipts be spent in acquainting the consumer with the importance of chemical plant food. He cited the need for additional newspaper advertising by the fertilizer industry and an equal distribution of advertising over the year.

Featuring the entertainment scheduled for the evening, the fertilizer executives was a dinner at the Capital City club Tuesday night, given by the Ashcraft-Wilkinson company in honor of officials of the association.

Elimination of "Fertilizer."

Advocating the abandonment of the word fertilizer from the name and literature of the association, E. L. Robinson, president of the National Fertilizer association, and head of the Meridian Fertilizer company, Meridian, Miss., urged that the term plant food be substituted. He addressed the convention at opening of the first general session Tuesday morning. He advised the change in name to show that the industry had been transformed from a waste product to a manufacturing industry, suggesting "The National Association of Plant Food Manufacturers" as a new title for the organization.

M. Markham Plummer, chief of trade practice conference of the federal trade commission, declared in his talk on "Trade Practice Conference Procedure" at the Tuesday session, that solution of the "ills of unfair industrial competition" must be brought about either voluntarily or through some compulsory process. Other speakers at the morning session were Harry D. Wilson, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture, and Arthur Shelton, economist, National Fertilizer association.

DR. CLINTON SCOTT TO SPEAK TONIGHT TO LABOR LEADERS

Dr. Clinton Lee Scott will speak tonight at the Labor temple on Trinity avenue at the semi-monthly meeting of the Atlanta Federation of Trades. Dr. Scott, who has addressed the federation on a previous occasion, will speak on various aspects of industrial conditions as they affect the workers. Delegates to the federation and the general public are invited to hear this address.

NEIGHBORHOOD MOVIES—DEKALB—"Smile, Brother, Smile." FAIRFAX—"The High Seaser." MADISON—"The Gray Vulture." PALACE—"The Goodbye Kiss." Ponce de Leon—"The Desert Bride." WEST END—"The Night Watch."

ERLANGER.

Newgate prison is perhaps the best known English institution of its class and while it may seem odd, it nevertheless supplies the background for the musical comedy that will open an engagement at the Erlanger theater tonight and continue the balance of the week, with a matinee on Saturday.

Of the music of the opera, and there are more than sixty airs, a new arrangement has been made by Frederick Austin which is said to add greatly to its charm. The orchestral demands are certain to be fully met by the large orchestra which has been a part of this organization on all of its American tours. Seats for all performances are now on sale at the Erlanger company and Phillips & Crew piano company.

Coming to Erlanger.

According to ancient legends, vampires have stalked the earth since the beginning of time. In every village and hamlet of Bavaria, Poland, Russia and other parts of central Europe one can hear tales of these monsters that come in various forms to haunt the night time of poor people. "Dracula," which comes to the Erlanger for the week beginning Monday, November 19, is a play based on Bram Stoker's famous novel, which deals with a human vampire as its main theme.

Keith's Georgia.

"The Air Circus," current at Keith's Georgia theater, probably has one of the most acceptable qualities in filmdom to recommend it; namely an "air" story with a total lack of mangle, gun, wars or soldiers of the fighting variety. As a consequence, it stands up as one of the most delightful, refreshingly different stories to hit Atlanta's theatrical mart in a long time. Sue Carol, easy to gaze upon, plays the part of the flying miss, who rolicks through the story with a pair of potential Lindberghs for companions.

Loew's Capitol.

Jimmie Rodgers, famous singer and yodler of Victor recording note, is the headline attraction on a highly pleasing bill of vaudeville at Loew's Capitol theater this week. Another big act on the bill is the "Brown Derby Band," in a musical program with dancing and comedy features. Other acts are Earl Faber and Margie McIntyre in a comedy skit; the Three Ryans, novelty dancers, and Al Gordon's comedy team. The feature picture is "Lonesome."

Howard.

The Howard theater is presenting this week Billie Dove, the screen's bird of paradise, in her latest First National sound picture, "The Night Watch." Featured with the beautiful Billie is Donald Reed. The story is said to be the finest mystery story since "Ben Hur." Another feature of the program this week is found in the Fox Movietone presentation featuring Mrs. Al Johnson, Warner Bros. Vitaphone presentations and a Fox Movietone news reel complete the bill.

Metropolitan.

"The Goodbye Kiss," being played at the Met, this week is the first dramatic effort of the former comedy impresario, Mack Sennett, and is a worthy effort, too, presenting an array of new faces, claimed by critics to be future stars in the making. Larry Ceballos' Undersea Revue, first Vitaphone full stage effort, is a rare treat.

Loew's Grand.

The big hit, "Lilac Time," with Colleen Moore and Gary Cooper in leading roles, is playing a return engagement at Loew's Grand theater this week. The picture is one of the season's greatest successes and scored a sensational hit when first offered here.

Cameo.

"The Patriot," showing at the Cameo today, has been called by many as Emil Jennings' greatest production. This "wonder film," directed by the great Ernest Lubitch, swings along in a smooth manner, revolving from one sequence into another.

Ponce de Leon.

"The Desert Bride," at Manager Swint's Ponce de Leon theater, is a colorful drama of the near east with thrilling sequences in Arabian palaces, bazaars and market places. The glamorous life of a Mohammedan city, with its subtle undercurrents, is faithfully portrayed upon the screen. Betty Compson has a powerful dramatic role amid the sandstorms of the desert, the intrigue and rebellions of Arabs. She is called upon to exert every emotion and her histrionic ability, Miss Compson is easily supported by Allan Forrest, who does some excellent work in the role of a French secret service agent.

81 Theater.

Elizabeth Smith and her crooning "uke," and Albert Jackson, called the funniest of all blackface boys, are featuring "That's It," smashing colored revue show, which Friday night at 11:30 will make its how to a big audience of white patrons of the 81 theater on Decatur street. "That's It" has won the unqualified personal approval of Manager Tom Bailey, of the Decatur street playhouse, who says that reservations have been heavy but that select seats still are obtainable at Jacobs and Five Points and the theater box office. The big colored attraction boasts an imposing array of additional principals, together with a heavy supporting cast and a snappy chorus.

STATE ASSEMBLY MEMBER IS DEAD AT MAYO HOSPITAL

Americus, Ga., November 13.—(P)—News was received here today of the death in Rochester, Minn., of Adison Hines, representative of Sumter county in the state legislature for eight years. Mr. Hines, who was reelected in this year's primary, had gone to the Mayo hospital in Rochester for diagnosis of an illness from which he had been suffering for six weeks.

Cancer of the liver was given as the immediate cause of his death.

Mr. Hines had been in the employ of the Seaboard Air Line railway for 26 years. During much of that time he served as an engineer. He was one of the founders and national president of the Pullman club, and a member of the executive board of the Order of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Representative Hines was born in Lee county. He came to Americus in 1892. He is survived by his widow, three daughters and one son.

His body is expected to arrive here Thursday.

S. E. GEORGIA FAIR DRAWS BIG CROWD ON OPENING DAY

Waycross, Ga., November 13.—(Special).—The Southeast Georgia fair, sponsored by the Southeast Georgia Cooperative association, which embraces thirteen counties, opened Monday with an attendance of thousands.

Americus, Ga., November 13.—(P)—News was received here today of the death in Rochester, Minn., of Adison Hines, representative of Sumter county in the state legislature for eight years. Mr. Hines, who was reelected in this year's primary, had gone to the Mayo hospital in Rochester for diagnosis of an illness from which he had been suffering for six weeks.

Cancer of the liver was given as the immediate cause of his death.

Mr. Hines had been in the employ of the Seaboard Air Line railway for 26 years. During much of that time he served as an engineer. He was one of the founders and national president of the Pullman club, and a member of the executive board of the Order of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Representative Hines was born in Lee county. He came to Americus in 1892. He is survived by his widow, three daughters and one son.

His body is expected to arrive here Thursday.

S. E. GEORGIA FAIR DRAWS BIG CROWD ON OPENING DAY

Waycross, Ga., November 13.—(Special).—The Southeast Georgia fair, sponsored by the Southeast Georgia Cooperative association, which embraces thirteen counties, opened Monday with an attendance of thousands.

The exposition building contains agricultural exhibits, women's department exhibits and commercial displays and exhibits, and surrounding the main fair building is the Johnny J. Jones Carnival shows and amusement features.

Monday was designated as Educational day at the fair, the attendees at the Southeast Georgia Education association conference being guests of the fair association.

School children had Monday as their day at the fair, too, a full holiday having been declared in Waycross and Ware counties, and in Brantley, Wayne, Charlton, Atkinson, Appling and many other adjoining counties.

The fair will continue through the entire week, with Tuesday as Civic Club day, Wednesday as Press day, Thursday as Agricultural day, Friday as Southeast Georgia Cooperative Association day, and Saturday at Everybody's day.

60 years' experience
as clothing merchants in Atlanta.

"Brass Tacks"

Day by day, as the pages of experience unfold themselves to us, we realize more and more the correctness of our theory in establishing a price-range for clothing that fits the average pocket-book.

If one's expenditures are not based on earnings, sooner or later the "apple cart" is bound to be upset.

Thirty-five Dollars is about as little as one can expect to pay for a suit or overcoat that will prove satisfactory in every respect—notwithstanding any claims to the contrary.

On the other hand, Fifty Dollars is about the maximum price one should have to pay for a suit or overcoat with all the necessary refinements.

These figures are based on allowing a reasonable margin of profit for the merchant. In this day of scientific merchandising and economic distribution fancy profits are simply out of the question.

Your own sense of values will substantiate our claims—if you take the trouble to get first-hand information. That much you owe to yourself.

We will be very glad to have any one use our clothing and our prices as a basis for comparison in making an actual demonstration.

Rum Load Found In Stalled Truck
By Dry 'Helpers'

A call for assistance in getting a stalled truck out of a ditch proved disastrous for John C. Bowen and Joseph Bowen, of Jackson county, and Hiram English, of Rabun county, when the helpers turned out to be prohibition officials and the truck was found to contain 60 gallons of whisky hidden underneath an innocent-looking load of apples, according to a report made public Tuesday by H. P. Wright, deputy prohibition administrator for this district.

The officers stated that they were asked to help push the truck out of the ditch and while engaged in this occupation heard the unmistakable "slush" of liquids. An investigation disclosed the hidden liquor, John C. Bowen claimed the truck and contents, it was stated, but all three men were bound over by the United States commissioner. The truck, which was valued at $400, was turned over to the Banks county sheriff.

James W. Harbin, apprehended by prohibition officials while carrying three quarts of whisky into an Atlanta hotel, complained that "You boys don't give me a chance to make enough to pay my fine," according to a report turned in to H. P. Wright. He was bound over under $200 bond, the report stated, and his automobile confiscated.

Nineteen fermenters, 1,000 gallons of beer, one 60-gallon steamer and one 120-gallon still with a daily capacity of 60 gallons, were destroyed by prohibition agents on a recent Clayton county raid, according to a report submitted to Mr. Wright. The apparatus was valued at $175.

CONTEMPT CHARGE
AGAINST J. J. DARGS
UPHELD BY COURT

The court of appeals Tuesday affirmed a verdict of the Crisp superior court in declaring J. J. Dargs in contempt of that court because of threats he is alleged to have made against a witness in a case under trial before that court. A fine of $200 and a 20-day jail sentence were affirmed in the decision of the higher court.

It was charged that Dargs threatened to cut the throat of a negro witness after the negro had testified, and although the alleged threats were not made in the presence of the trial judge, the court of appeals ruled that this judge had the authority to declare the defendant guilty of contempt in the case.

Crimson Tide starts work for Tech in Crippled Condition

Many Injuries Are Reported In 'Bama Camp

Wade Trying Out New Combinations To Throw Against Jackets Here Saturday.

BY HORACE RENEGAR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
The hand of injury has descended heavily on the football Tide of Alabama, but just how many of the red shirts will be able to throw down their crutches and oppose Georgia Tech Saturday is still problematical.

The casualty list from the campus correspondents reads like an injured list from the Verdun battlefield, but some of the wounded may come to life in time to throw a great obstacle in the path of a swirling Tornado.

Babe Pearce, veteran center, and Paul Suther, sophomore backfield sensation, however seem certain for bench assignment this week-end. Pearce is out with a twisted knee, and Suther's shoulder is in cast from injuries suffered in the Wisconsin encounter ten days ago.

Campbell Injured.
Campbell, who replaced Suther in the Kentucky game Saturday, is reported unable to scrimmage, and will be held in reserve. Clements and Kink, line men, also are reported hurt, but are considered likely starters against Tech.

Coch Waddell Wade is trying out several new combinations to run against the Jackets, and the morale of the team is high.

While this hurried housecleaning is under way at the Capstone, Tennessee, and Vanderbilt also are making ready for a gigantic clash at Nashville.

The Commodores, with championship hopes bladed Saturday by Georgia Tech, are determined to put a crimp in Tennessee's straight-winning streak, while the Volunteers of Knoxville are equally as set on turning back tradition and whipping Captain Jimmy Armistead and mates.

Both teams should be in top form for the game with Armistead and Schwartz, the ball-carrying duo of the Nashville team, to match skill with Hack and Mack, touchdown twins of Tennessee. McEver, the Mack of the Knoxville eleven, is now leading point-scoring of the south, while Fuddy Hackman, his running mate, is also well up in that select circle of point-makers.

Another Big Game.

Another game that will focus attention is the Clemson-Florida encounter at Jacksonville. The Tigers of Calhoun showed a back-to-normalcy tendency against Virginia Military Institute, with Galt McMillan in the state role. Justus, McCarley and Ray McMillan should furnish him with plenty of help, but the unbeaten Gators have Crabtree and mate pointed high.

Louisiana State will meet its major test to see if the Baton Rouge banner is to go higher in quest of the conference championship. Unbeaten and untied, the Tigers of Louisiana invade Athens to meet the Georgia Bulldogs.

Virginia Poly, the other unbeaten team, is in fair condition for Washington and Lee at Lexington. Paul will be the big gun in the Gobler attack.

Coast League Fails To Choose President

Portland, Ore., November 13.—(AP) Unable to reach an agreement regarding selection of a president for the Pacific Coast league to succeed Harry A. Williams, directors of the league have postponed that matter until they meet in Hollywood, January 21, at which time Mr. Williams' five-year term expires.

Hopelessly deadlocked after a day of presidential discussion, the directors adjourned their meeting and left for their homes.

The last ballot taken showed four ballots each for Mr. Williams and William H. McCarthy, of San Francisco, former president, five votes were needed for election.

McGugin Denies Armistead Is Banned

Nashville, Tenn., November 13.—(AP) Whatever doubts Vanderbilt followers had that Jimmy Armistead, captain and quarterback, would start Saturday's game against the University of Tennessee were dispelled late tonight when Coach Dan McGugin announced the "Bald Eagle" would be in the opening lineup.

Rumors of a shakeup in the Vanderbilt lineup, because McGugin was displeased with Armistead's showing against Tech last Saturday had been prevalent here all day.

ZBYSZKO GETS ANOTHER TRY ON LOCAL MAT

Treatment accorded Stanislaus Zbyszko, the venerable Pole, who was knocked out by Jim Browning when he had the latter on the verge of defeat in their two-hour wrestling match here last week, warranted another chance for the "Old Man," and he is to have it next Tuesday night in the auditorium.

John Contos again is sponsoring the Big Pole's appearance, this time against a different opponent. Contos appeared quite upset over the attack of Browning and has asked the boxing commission, which governs wrestling, to see that in the future none of the burly grapplers is permitted to win a match when he strikes his opponent on the jaw or in any other manner.

Fans at the ringside last week hurled all sorts of criticism at Browning after his knockout of the 50-year-old ex-champion of the world.

Contos has an opponent in mind for Zbyszko but arrangements have not been completed and it will be at least another day, the promoter says, before he can state definitely who will be drawn for this test with the powerful three-champion.

Turnesa, Ciuci Win Golf Match

Pinehurst, N. C., November 13.—(United News.) Joe Turnesa, of White Plains, N. Y., and Henry Ciuci, of Bridgeport, Conn., won the ninth annual mid-south best ball golf tournament held today at the Pinehurst Country club.

Turnesa, who is of the Elmford Country club, and Ciuci, of the Mill-river, set a record low score for the tournament, 131 strokes for the 36 holes. They had cards of 66 in the morning and 65 in the afternoon.

Gene Sarazen, of the Fresh Meadows Country club, of Long Island, teamed with Mike Brady, of the Wing-foot Country club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., were second with 135, rounds of 67 and 66.

Jim Barnes, Pelham, N. Y., and Tom Kerrigan, Siwanoy, N. Y., came third with 137.

Vanity Is Winner At Pimlico Track

New York, November 13.—(AP) W. R. Coe's crack two-year-old filly, Vanity, returned to form today and romped away with the homestead purse, $2,500, added, at Pimlico. Vanity set the pace from start to finish, won galloping by four lengths, ran the six furlongs in 1:13.45 and secured $2,250 for her owner. Fortune's Fool, of the Audley farms, took the place by half a length from Igloo, coupled with Vanity. Jubilee and Stupendous also ran.

At Lexington, Stuyvesant Peabody's Martie Flynn accounted for the Harborsburg purse, with Pigeon Hole second and Jovial third. The mile and one-sixteenth was run in 1:47.25.

Jackets Open Work for Tilt With Alabama

Coach Alexander's Yellow Jackets opened up on their real work in preparation for the Tech reception being planned for the Crimson Tide on the coming Saturday with a stiff scrimmage Tuesday afternoon at Grant field.

The practice started in to be a good one from the first whistle. The Grey Devils, with the Tide plays as the medium by which they were to advance the ball, were up to their old tricks of running the varsity to death.

And varsity men, fearful for their places, were kept on their toes to hold Flipo Martin's squad in check.

The Jackets, while powerful on the defensive in the main, were failing before an end-around play which called on Morris in the ball-toting role, and which was walloping the scrubs to a rare first down, though it was stopped on occasions, and even six tries failed to net the required 10 yards for the Devils.

The varsity pass defense was air-tight save on one occasion, when Dutch Faist batted a toss into the hands of a Devil back instead of toward the ground.

On the offensive, the big squad clicked at intervals, which were few and far between. Only two touchdowns were pushed over, one on a 50-yard drive, which saw Faist, Dunlap, Randolph and Dunlap go over in four plays. Faist scored the second on an 80-yard run, going off tackle, and then sneaking in through the secondary for a pretty trot as has been seen at the Flats in many days.

The aerial attack, as demonstrated by the big team, was much worse than the defense showed on this type of play. Not a single leave was completed out of many tried, the only varsity toss not reaching the ground being one which was intercepted and returned by a Grey Devil back.

Tuesday's scrimmage did not work though who says in the future. The varsity fray. These men looked on, getting an idea as to the type of play used by the Tide, and will get their taste of these formations in the afternoon's workout, having spent their spare moments Tuesday in running drills.

The "fox-hounds" horse show was one of the features of the program this afternoon. The entry list established a record for events of this kind in Virginia. There were a host of these for spectacular performances in the jumping classes, with Colonel H. D. Newcomb, of Greenwood, Va., heading the list of winners.

Yale Goes Back To First Grade In Football

New York, November 13.—(AP) The Yale of Yale went back to fundamentals today in preparation for their grueling homecoming Princeton this coming Saturday.

Mal Stevens split his Bulldog squad of 40 into groups and held an hour's intensive drill in the game's primary principles. Then the backs and ends turned to forward passing, after which Stevens divided the team that is expected to start against the Tigers. In the backfield of this combination were Hohen, Loug, Dunn and Becker. Neither John Garvey nor Ellis are expected to recover from injuries in time for Saturday's battle.

Badgers, Iowa Play Saturday For Grid Title

Winner Certain of Sharing Big Ten Flag If Not Getting It Altogether.

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON.
Chicago, November 13.—(AP) Wisconsin and Iowa, two erstwhile underdogs of football who would be kings, "crossed" trails at Iowa City Saturday and to the victor may go the Big Ten championship for 1928.

The combat between these powerful elevens, which haven't lost a Big Ten football crown in years, is the blue ribbon feature of this week's conference program. The largest crowd in the history of football in Iowa is expected to watch it.

Employing a brilliant aerial and running attack, the Badgers and the Hawkeyes are expected to see the game's conference percentage column. Iowa has a better conference record than Wisconsin as the Badgers were victorious while the Hawkeyes have won all their games. Last Saturday, Iowa stamped itself as one of the best teams to wear the old gold by beating Wisconsin, 14 to 7, at Ames, and bringing its team scoring record to 140 for six games. Wisconsin showed impressive form, too, while losing to the Badgers, 14 to 7, at Chicago, 10 to 6, to keep in the race.

Iowa's edge in Saturday's battle lies in its forward wall. Against Ohio State and Minnesota, the Hawk line displayed an crushing attack and through it, Iowa's star half lingers, led by Maves, McLean and Willis Glasgow, made 300 yards as against 181 for the Buckeyes. In McLean, ponderous Cherokee Indian, Iowa has a wide edge on fullbacks. McLean, who led the nation's stars in scoring last year, has been the Hawk line's mainstay in 1928, has been good for two or three yards almost every time they were needed this season.

With such a cortege of backs as "Bo" Cuisiner, Hal Smith, Bill Luby and Sammy Behr and a line that Badger supporters claim is second to none in the conference, Wisconsin is a dangerous team. Under the tutelage of Coach Glen Thistlethwaite, the Badgers have developed a beautiful passing game, which has moved down teams like Notre Dame, Alabama and Michigan. In punting, Wisconsin has Ludy, who averages close to 50 yards and who has sent several kicks for 65 and 70 yards.

Both Iowa and Wisconsin have other hard games ahead of them and the possibility is strong that the race for the championship may end in a triple or quadruple tie. Iowa must beat Wisconsin and Michigan, while Wisconsin must defeat Iowa and Minnesota.

Six other games, two of them conference clashes, will be played Saturday. In the conference, Northwestern invades Chicago and Northwestern journeys to Indiana. Other games of lesser importance are Haskell at Minnesota, Michigan State at Michigan, Muskingum at Ohio State, and Wabash at Purdue.

Iowa's defeat of Ohio State was the high light of last Saturday's skirmishes, while other games played close to predictions.

Wisconsin breezed through to a 25-10 triumph over Chicago, Minnesota defeated Indiana, 21 to 12; Northwestern won from Purdue, 7 to 6; Michigan came from behind to tie the Navy at six and a half minutes, and Illinois used several reserves to tie Butler, 14 to 0.

New York, November 13.—(AP) The Yale of Yale went back to fundamentals today in preparation for their grueling homecoming Princeton this coming Saturday.

Mal Stevens split his Bulldog squad of 40 into groups and held an hour's intensive drill in the game's primary principles. Then the backs and ends turned to forward passing, after which Stevens divided the team that is expected to start against the Tigers. In the backfield of this combination were Hohen, Loug, Dunn and Becker. Neither John Garvey nor Ellis are expected to recover from injuries in time for Saturday's battle.

Final Games Will Determine Tech's Rating in Nation

Georgia Gets Ironical Chance For Revenge

Bulldogs Dropped Out of Race Last Year by Jacks, May Even Count.

BY ALAN J. GOULD,
Associated Press Sports Editor.

Yale, November 13.—(AP)—It will take the final salvo of the football campaign in a series of engagements to be played as late as December 8 to determine the final rating in this year's race for national honors. It happens that four of the teams now conspicuously involved in the nationwide tussle do not close their drives until that date. Many an anxious ear will be tuned to the reports of Notre Dame's invasion of Southern California's stronghold, Georgia Tech's traditional tussle with the University of Georgia at Atlanta and Florida's battle with Tennessee at Nashville on December 8.

Tech Bowling Along.
Southern California is unbeaten, in fact the only major Pacific coast team that has suffered no worse than a tie and that with California, Georgia Tech, Florida and Tennessee are bowling along at the top of the southern conference heap, all with spotless records and all helping to beat the gridiron touts for Dixie as they seldom have been beaten before.

Last year the situation was reversed when the Georgia rivals came down to the climax conflict, Georgia's Bulldogs were riding the crest. They had beaten a great Yale team, with Bruce Caldwell, and won nine in a row only to have their national title hopes smothered in the mud of Grant field by Tech's mighty array.

Irony of Fate.
Now it is Tech's turn to be traveling along high, wide and handsome while Georgia has absorbed defeats at the hands of Yale and Florida. It would be an ironic gesture for the Bulldogs to take revenge and conquer their old rivals, Tech, in the final game, assuming the Yellow Jackets go until then without a defeat. They also have Alabama and Auburn in the way.

Tennessee and Florida must avoid a number of pitfalls if there is to be the crucial aspect of their final game. The Vols must beat Vanderbilt this Saturday to keep in the running while Florida's "fighting Gators" must dispose of Clemson and Washington and Lee.

After an erratic start Notre Dame, if not able to claim any national title laurels itself, appears bent on making it unpleasant for a few others out-standing as championship contenders. The Hoosiers upset the Army's hopes last Saturday and will attempt to check the unbeaten dash of Carnegie Tech this week on their home stamping grounds at South Bend. After that the Notre Dame Nomads will go west in search of Southern California's snail.

Dramatic Touch.
There is a dramatic touch to the Carnegie-Notre Dame affair, for it will be remembered the last time they met, in 1926, the Tartans sprang one of the biggest upsets of recent years, handing the Hoosiers their only defeat of the season to the tune of 19 to 0.

Howard Harpster, now captain of Carnegie, was the star of the stunning reversal two years ago. He kicked a brace of field goals and otherwise caused the Hoosiers no little annoyance. Now Harpster, one of the outstanding candidates for all-American quarterback honors this season, is leading as powerful an army as the east has produced this year.

There will be all the elements of a stirring scrap when Tech's powerful line, leading the way for Harpster and the 235-pound battering ram, John Karcis, clashes with the Hoosier cast that beat the Army in such spectacular fashion.

Plenty of Foot.
There is plenty of foot in football this year, even if the boys are not doing very well at kicking goals after touchdowns. Such conspicuous eastern punters as Eddie Bartzig, of West Virginia; Jim Moorey, of Georgetown, and Harpster, of Carnegie, has had a lot to do with the successes of their teams.

It was the brilliant kicking of Scott Creighton quarterback, that had a lot to do with the team's success in holding the unbeaten University of Utah eleven to a tie at Omaha last Saturday in one of the season's biggest upsets.

Fighters Change.
Detroit, November 13.—(AP)—It may Miller, Chicago lightweight boxer, has been signed to replace Tommy Grogan, of Omaha, as Jimmy McLarnin's opponent in a 10-round bout here November 30. Promoter Dick Dunn announced today.

Bowl of Roses.

TECH in the Bowl of Roses! From this distance that sounds like a lot of hokum. Not that the Tornado is undeserving of such an honor if it goes through the season undefeated, but there are several reasons why it is not probable that the Jackets will fly to the Pacific even if they are invited by the tournament committee, which they have not yet been.

One great drawback to this idea is the big all-star Shrine game to be played at Grant field on New Year's day. This game, as you will remember, is to be played for the benefit of Masonic charities and the players will be selected from the southern conference. Fifty men are to be picked and then the squad will be divided into two teams nominally representing the north and south of the conference.

If Tech was to leave for the coast while this game was being played here no great harm would be done, but the host is not supposed to run off and play in somebody's backyard when all the children in the neighborhood bring their dolls to play with him.

Then there's another thing to be considered. Georgia's school of technology is possessed of a very fine faculty. A very fine faculty from the standpoint of teaching the students what they are supposed to learn and kicking them out of the enclosure if they fail to learn. That is as it should be. Tech should be proud of such a faculty but Tech would also be proud of a faculty that could see a bit further than scholastic perfection in their endeavors to put Georgia Tech on the national map.

The time has arrived when a man must give a couple of inches to gain a foot. The time has come when authorities mostly admit that athletic prowess redounds to the general benefit of the college or university. Tech has never played a post-season intercollegiate game for the very adequate reason that it has never been of such caliber as to be invited since such games have been the vogue. This year if Tech should go through its schedule without a defeat it will have won a right to visit the coast. If invited the powers that be could make a much more serious mistake than to let them go.

All these "ifs" are intriguing as well as interesting and the football fans of the south will await with interest the decision of the Tech faculty if (another one) the Tornado is invited to the coast.

Tech vs. Alabama.

ALL of which reminds one that Tech must beat Alabama this week and Georgia December 8 in order to maintain a clean slate. Just a couple of little simple tasks like that. If you will allow a little personal opinion at this point let us suggest that we are more alarmed about the Alabama game than about the Commodore invasion.

There are several reasons for this opinion. One reason is that one thing is virtually impossible in football—to get a team on top of its game two weeks in succession. Tech was on top for Vanderbilt. If Tech is on top again this Saturday the Alabama game would be almost a certain victory, but will the Jackets be on top?

A lot of bear stories are coming from the Crimson camp. A lot of players are hurt. The squad is performing terribly in practice and, in short, everything is wrong. Look out for a team that is all wrong before a game. It is usually all right when game time comes. When Alabama is all right it is hard to beat.

What Is Happening In Grid Camps

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., November 13.—(AP)—While Ken Strong, of New York university, is leading the gridiron scorers of the nation with 118 points, the Chattanooga Moccasins are pointing to a member of their team who bears the same name and leads the S. I. A. A. champions in scoring.

The Chattanooga Ken Strong has 61 points to top the powerful band of Moccasins, who have not felt defeat from any S. I. A. A. team since 1925, when Oglethorpe walked off with a 6-2 verdict.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., November 13.—(AP)—The University of North Carolina football squad, called to meet the Davidson Wildcats at Davidson on Saturday of this week, came through the tie battle with South Carolina here last Saturday with no additions to an already heavy hospital list. This enabled the Carolina coaches to start preparation for the Wildcats with better prospects.

Captain Harry Schwartz played the entire game with his hand in a plaster cast, but he reported after the game in fine shape. Odell Sapp and Ray Farris, both nursing hurts, also played the entire 60 minutes without damages. Shine Howard, Jimmie Maus, Jimmie Magner and Strunk Nash showed improvement since Saturday.

COLUMBIA, S. C., November 13.—(AP)—The South Carolina Gamecocks, pointing to the game with Furman Saturday, began a week of intensive practice behind closed gates.

Zoebl, it was reported, was still in a bad way, having injured his ankle again last Saturday in the North Carolina game. Trainers were unable to say whether he would be in condition or not to enter the game Saturday.

With this exception, the team came through the North Carolina engagement without serious hurt.

RALEIGH, N. C., November 13.—(AP)—Humbled by the little bunch of scrappy Davidson Wildcats, the North Carolina State Wolfpack yesterday appeared to have awakened itself to the realization that in Duke university Blue Devils there lies a dangerous foe in the race for football supremacy in these parts.

Line Coach Butch Slaughter, who has seen Duke in action several times this season, dished out some serious advice to his squad after putting them through a heavy practice.

NASHVILLE, TENN., November 13.—(AP)—Although it's just before the battle with Tennessee, Vanderbilt can't get Georgia Tech off its mind. And all the coaxing of Dan McGugin and pep leaders is being combined to get the team in good spirits for Saturday's tussle.

The Commodores have always been a jinx to Tennessee and only twice since 1892 have the Volunteers won a football game from Vanderbilt. Their last victory was in 1916. Last week the wise ones said Vandy had a smoother machine than Tennessee—but that was last week before the Commodores sailed into the "solid south" and then sailed right out again, covered with Yellow Jacket stings.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., November 13.—(AP)—Having emerged from the Sevanee game with only a few minor scratches and bruises, Major Bob Neyland's undefeated Tennessee squad has about preparing for their crucial battle of the season. Next Saturday the Vols will journey to Nashville for battle with the Commodores of Dan McGugin.

Vanderbilt will outguess Tennessee by about 20 pounds to the man and Tennessee has little hope of brandishing a sustained drive such as Tech did Saturday to score their second touchdown against the Volunteers.

So it is on a wide open attack crammed full of forward passes and end runs that the first Vols eleven apparently places its hopes for an upset victory.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., November 13.—(AP)—With the remnants of the football team that the University of Virginia opened the season with two months ago, the Cavaliers are down to hard work today preparing for the game with Maryland's Old Liners next Saturday at College park.

The jinx followed the Cavaliers in the Virginia Tech battle of last Saturday and more men were injured than in any previous game of the season. This situation puts Coach Neal and his assistants frankly at a loss to know what to do about the Maryland and North Carolina games.

U. S. B. Prepares For Richmond

The University School Blue Birds went through a hard workout at Piedmont park Tuesday, preparing themselves for the tilt with the Riverside Military academy at Gainesville Friday.

The Blue Birds started off on the wrong foot this season and so far they haven't righted themselves. The Riverside club looks on this game as one of the most important of the season and is working hard for it.

The dope favors the Cadets to repeat their victory of last season, but the Birds showed a much improved club in holding the fast Lanier club to a two-point victory in last week's game, that they are liable to upset to the dope and hand the Cadets a lacing.

The Cadets were surprised by the Gordon institute last week and held to a scoreless tie.

Center Hill Quintet Beats Baptist Team

The Center Hill basketball team defeated the Joy class from Central Baptist church, 26 to 24, in a game that was not decided until the final minute of play.

Haines, Nash and McGuirk, of the winners, played good ball and scored baskets from all angles.

Ted Goodrich Beats Taylor In Main Bout

Foul Is Claimed But Referee Disallows Protest in Technical Kayo.

BY BEN COTHARAN.

Mr. Edward Hanlon, local matchmaker, is getting to be a convincing sort of person. We base the foregoing conclusion on the fights that Edward is presenting Atlanta's fight-again lateness. He is, it seems, about to convince the public that good fights can be presented here at an ordinary sort of price.

There was, you remember, Mr. Hanlon's first venture which he made last month, presenting six fights, all of them six rounds. The card was a decided success with every man jack on the card fighting and the affair culminating in a victory over Stiles Ataway by Atlanta's Ted Goodrich. The public rather liked the thing.

Public Remembers.
The public also remembered, for a right large portion of it turned out Tuesday night as Mr. Hanlon pulled off another one of his shows. It wasn't quite as wild as the last one. Mr. Hanlon's performers this time showed a bit more polish and little more knowledge of boxing. But the fighting was there, action was there and a blood bath.

Blood has a habit of delighting your average fan. He becomes slightly whoopee and enjoys himself. And please your customer is the secret of success in anything and the fight racket especially.

So much for Mr. Hanlon and his fights. If he keeps up his present rate he is very likely to succeed. Goodrich Returns.

His main bout Tuesday saw the return of Ted Goodrich, just recently become Ted Goodrich, Sr., since the advent into this world of Ted, Jr. Ted after a start that could only be termed slow, shifted down a slim wiry youngster from LaGrange, Ralph Taylor, and became victor by a technical knockout when young Taylor failed to answer the bell for the fifth round.

There was argument, Taylor, who had fought a very good fight, advanced the information that he had been fouled. His argument was based on the fact that when Goodrich smashed a left into Taylor's stomach that it was lower than the law allows. Goodrich claims it was a solar-plexus blow. Anyhow, he followed it up with a right clip to the jaw, and Taylor, having several minutes of indecision, hit the canvas, arose at the count of nine, weaved around until the bell, called for a doctor during intermission, did not answer for the fifth. After going to his dressing room C. E. Buchanan, of the local set of boxing fathers, and Referee Battling Budd stated that Taylor's cup was not dentured and that he seemed to be suffering from the effects of a foul blow. That, then, decided that.

Goodrich scaled 151-12; Taylor 149. Mr. Hanlon's shows are attracting a quite desirable class of people. There were notable present. One was W. L. (Young) Stribling, said by the faithful to be the world's best heavyweight champion. Accompanying Young Stribling were Pa and W. L., Jr., age 21 months. Following the first bout, W. L., Jr., was introduced from the ring and then, with the help of Dad, performed several acrobatic stunts quite interesting to watch. The performance ended when Strib tossed junior out of the ring into the wing arms of Pa. Pa and W. L. leave this morning for New York and preparations for Strib's next fight, to be held on the 22d of this month with Napoleon Jack Dempsey as opponent. The Striblings do not fear Dorval. Neither are the Striblings flying to New York.

Dempsey Is Victor.
People who live around Hillary, Ga., and in neighboring towns came to see Mr. Hanlon's show Tuesday. More specifically they came to see Young Stribling, 162, North Georgia whirlwind, perform. He performed in creditable fashion, winning a very well-learned decision over Lou Kelly, 67, of this city. Since the last performance here Young Jack has, it seems, learned to cover up and not let an opponent hit him with everything but the proverbial water bucket. His hitting style was hampered Tuesday night by a tendency on the part of Kelly to wrap long arms about Dempsey's midportion and hang on dearly.

In an affair that might well have been a comedy skit on the stage Blondy Davis (190) won a decision over Joe Chaney (189). Chaney, presumably a drunk, reeled and staggered around the ring, hung on the ropes with one hand while fending off blows with the other, assuming almost ridiculous poses in the center of the ring while Davis belabored him with blows that were not hard enough to knock him out.

Marshall McDowell (148) and Spencer Carter (137) drew in a very interesting match packed with action, blows and blood. Happy Curtis (168) won on technical knockout from Harley Baker (165) soldier lad of Fort McPherson. In the third round Baker received a severe cut over the left eye but continued bravely on until seconds tossed in the towel at the beginning of the sixth. Curtis was taking an effective lacing. Jimmy (Bad Eye) McNulty (137) won a decision over Jack Corbett (140).

Whitney Racers Sold at Auction

Lexington, Ky., November 13.—(AP) Thirty-four mares from the Harry Payne Whitney stud were sold for a total of $127,400 at the stable's first public auction today at the Whitney farm near here. The prices ranged from $200 to $12,500, with an average of $3,748.

Penitentiary, ch. 9, by Pennant-Regret by Broadstick brought the top price. The daughter of the only filly ever to win the Kentucky derby was sold to H. C. Hatch, of Toronto, for $12,500. Three other mares sold for $10,000 or more.

Sally League Heads Convene

Charlotte, N. C., November 13.—(AP) South Atlantic league club owners and managers were assembling here tonight for the opening of the annual powwow tomorrow.

The only official business to come before the body at this time is the setting of dates for the opening and closing games in the circuit next season and to name someone to draw up a tentative schedule.

Dempsey, Idle, Tells Rickard He Wants Job

Doesn't Say, However, Whether He Prefers It in Ring or at Dog Track.

BY FRANK GETTY.

United News Sports Editor.
New York, November 13.—(United News.)—Unoccupied and restless, Jack Dempsey indicated indirectly to Tex Rickard today a willingness to return to the prize ring where he ruled as heavyweight champion for seven years.

The long anticipated conference between the promoter and the ex-champion took place this afternoon in Rickard's office, and while the two of them were as evasive in their conversation as relatives at the reading of a will, it was obvious to the United News' unofficial observer that they had something on their minds besides golf and fishing.

Nothing Definite.
Nothing definite has been disclosed or settled at this time, but reading between the lines of their chatter fight fans may form their own conclusions.

The scene is Rickard's office, with the promoter, just returned from Florida, sitting at his ease with foot on an expensive mahogany desk and an unlighted cigar twisted in his lean mouth. Midwestern sunlight slants through a high window, touches up the pattern on an expensive Persian rug and glints on an inexpensive cuspidor.

Dempsey strolls in, unannounced, twirling his light grey hat.
"Hello, Tex, how's kid?"
"Fine. How're you, Jack?"
"Great. When'll you get in?"
"This morning. How long you been around?"
"Oh, I've been in town about two weeks, Tex."

Just a Bum Show.
"What was the matter with your show? Did you have to walk back from Connecticut?"
"Oh, no, I just had a chance to get out and I took it. It was a bum show."

"What are you doing now?"
"Here there was an expectant gasp from the audience as Dempsey said: "Why, nothing, Tex, nothing. Saw some pretty good fights while you were away."

"Who's that, Paulino and Von Porat?"
"You, pretty good scrap. That Swede's pretty good, Tex."

"Think you could have liked either of them fellers when you were at your best, Jack?"
"There was a giggle from Dempsey, who is still too laconic to blather."

"Why, now, I don't know, Tex. They're pretty tough boys."

Here the audience contributed an appreciative laugh.
"What's the next fight with the big fellows, Tex?"

Stribling Next.
"Stribling and Dorval on the 30th."

"How's your dog game?"
"Good. You better come down to Florida this winter, Jack."

"I might do that. How's the fishing?"
"Good. I'll take you fishing."

"How's your dog track?"
"It isn't my track. I just own some stock in it. Come on down and I'll get you a job."

"All right. What do I do?"
"Oh, just pose around and help manage things."

"Well, I've got to know what I'm going to do. Gotta keep busy."

"Are you going to have a stable out west this season?"
"Naw, I've only got a couple of horses. Gonna sell them when they get in shape."

"No more acting?"
"Not right away."

Dempsey Fidgets.
Dempsey fidgeted around, twirling his watch-chain. Rickard shifted his cigar and glanced moodily at Jack.

"You're coming to dinner with me tonight, Tex?"
"All right."

"Want to go to a show afterwards?"
"Why, no, we can talk and then I promised to look in at the horse show."

And that, fellow fight fans, is what Dempsey said to Rickard and what Rickard said to Dempsey—as long as anyone was listening.

Yaryan Better After Operation

Birmingham, Ala., November 13.—(AP)—Everett (Yam) Yaryan, veteran catcher of the Birmingham Barons, who is confined to a Birmingham hospital following an operation for appendicitis, was reported as slightly improved today. Yaryan's condition was considered serious yesterday, hospital attendants said.

This is the second similar operation the veteran catcher has been forced to undergo since last winter.

Fight Results

New York, November 13.—Tony Vaccarella, New York welterweight, outpointed Hilaro bout at the New Leont A. C. tonight. Vaccarella weighed 144, Martinez 144.

Jacksonville, Fla., November 13.—Pinky May, New York bantam, and Eddie Burt, of Mobile, fought a 10-round draw here tonight, a decision which failed to meet with approval of the ring-side fans, many of whom believed Burt had won on points.

The SPORTLIGHT

These Football Schedules

In this matter of beaten and unbeaten teams—of team rankings at the end of the year—few give enough consideration to the quality and quantity of schedules that must be faced.

For example, consider the assignments that the Army and Ohio State had to face—

The Army had to gear its platoon up to face Southern Methodist, Harvard, Yale and Notre Dame, Nebraska and Stanford—six of the best teams in the country from five different football sections—the south, the far west, the Missouri valley, the mid-west and the east.

Ohio State for a season's turn was called on to face Northwestern, Indiana, Michigan, Princeton, Iowa and Illinois—another span of six hard games.

It might be pointed out that Chicago and Michigan had almost as much to meet—also Notre Dame—but they haven't gone as far along the winning lane.

Nebraska has drawn a rugged program with Pittsburgh and the Army added to its own territorial assignments, but even Nebraska's schedule hasn't quite matched the Army and Ohio State.

Yale is called on to face a harder schedule than Princeton—inasmuch as Yale had to meet the Army early. But Princeton with Cornell, Ohio State, Yale and the Navy has no center.

A team might deserve more credit from a close defeat at the hands of a strong team than from two victories over much weaker ones. But let a team try to get this credit. Too many football rankings and ratings are judged by victories and defeats—not by the caliber of the eastern wing is being considered.

Wakeman and Anderson—Lassman and Grant—Sprague and Perry—Mooney of Georgetown—Edly of Yale—Barfield, of Princeton—Clarke, of Harvard—any one or two of these can turn on a good tackle at almost any given moment, when the enemy conquered—or faced—through

THE YOUNG PRETENDERS

By Alice Grant Rosman

SYNOPSIS.

While lying in bed after a motor accident, Hugo Donalson broods over the fact that his father, with whom he'd quarreled just before the crash, has never come into his room to visit him. He decides that he must be dead and that his mother and the servants are keeping it from him. His aunt, Lady Eleanor Wise, a great gossip, comes to call and tells Hugo that his friend, Paul Mostyn, is in prison for stealing and that he has married some girl of whom his family disapproved and that Hugo Mostyn had expected to marry Paul and is heartbroken over the affair. Hugo is distressed by the story and asks his mother to have Hugo Mostyn come to see him. Hugo tells Hugo that she was not married to marry Paul and that she believes Paul to be the victim of blackmailers.

INSTALLMENT IX. PEACE.

Letter From Mrs. Paul Mostyn to Her Husband, Undergoing Imprisonment for Theft. Not Postmarked.

Paul, my dearest: This letter can't be sent to you where you are for obvious reasons, but I am going to write it to perhaps some day we may read it together, or if the worst comes to the worst, you will read it alone and it will explain why I am not with you any longer.

Perhaps I am stupidly nervous to-night, but I am suddenly frightened they may succeed in parting us after all. If they do, it will be only because it seems better for you, my dear.

Your counsel, Sir Richard Donaldson, sent for me today, and I went half wild with hope, thinking they must have discovered something after all. But directly I was shown into his room and he said "Be seated, madam," I knew I had been wrong.

Paul dearest, I can't help hating that man with his dark face and piercing eyes. You thought he would be a friend to you because you were a friend of his son's, but he's not. He's only a friend to your people and I hate them all because they could believe what they did of you when they have known you all your life. I know you better and I'm fighting them, but they have all the weapons and I have none.

Perhaps you can guess why he sent for me. They want to buy me off. He offered me a thousand pounds on behalf of your people if I would give a written undertaking never to see you or communicate with you again. I asked him sarcastically what would happen to you in that case, and he said that your father would see that you were given a new start in Canada or Australia, but unless I gave you up completely they would do nothing whatever for you either now or in the future.

O, Paul, if he had said they would take you home and forget everything and give you your proper place in the world, I might have respected them, but to want to send you away like that, alone, believing the one person in the world who loved and trusted you had turned traitor, was too much.

I lost my head altogether and flew at Sir Richard. I said: "Is that how you would treat your son?" (There was a photograph of a boy on his desk. I suppose it would be the Hugo you used to talk of.) I thought for a moment he was going to have a fit. His eyes simply blazed and he was perfectly white. Then he said: "We'll leave my son out of it if you please." I said: "He's Paul's friend. Does he think him a thief like all the rest of you?" "Personalities will not help you, madam," thundered Sir Richard and I replied: "I am not asking your help, Sir Richard. You are asking mine."

He calmed down then. He even called me Mrs. Mostyn, perhaps hoping I would be flattered and grateful, but they can't make me anything but Mrs. Mostyn, however hard they try, can they? He talked most persuasively and I'll try to give you his exact words, as far as I can.

"Mrs. Mostyn, you tell us you are innocent of all complicity in this unfortunate affair, and we must, of course, believe you, but you will admit that your association with Paul has brought him nothing but disaster. It lost him a good home and generous allowance; it caused him to slight a young lady in his own walk of life, to whom, if he was not actually engaged, he was most certainly very warmly attached; it has directly led him to imprisonment for theft. My clients feel that a continuance of such an association can lead only to fresh disasters. They wish to do the best for their son and at the same time to deal fairly with you. I beg you to think this matter over quietly and sensibly and I am sure you will see that the arrangement we suggest is in your own interest."

You see how it is, Paul, darling. They believe I am guilty as well as you, and the dice do seem loaded against us. We can't deny that I got you that job with my firm and that I did know in a casual business way, the two men who took you to that beastly club. I daresay it does look to your people as though I were at the back of it in some way.

I see now I ought not to have married you, when you were so sure your parents would come round as soon as it was really done. I should have known perfectly well that rich parents of sons are not like that. But I wanted to believe they were because I loved you so. You are such a darling, you are simply incapable of thinking evil of any one and although I adore you for it, I know it is dangerous to be like that. In future I shall be suspicious for us both—if there is any future.

I have refused, of course, but they won't leave it at that and I am frightened. If they offered to do something really great for you I might feel I ought to give it up, and yet I know in my heart that you need me as I need you. I think I want more strength and courage than I naturally possess.

Anyway I shall fight for you, Paul. I have burned my boats and disappeared leaving only the bank address. I've bought a bobbed wig with a straight fringe, sold most of my clothes and bought strange, dowdy ones, and taken a small room in a house belonging to a Mrs. Ponder at Clapham. I am not going to touch the little money we have but work for my living at anything I can—sewing perhaps. I couldn't go back to my old kind of job after all the publicity in my own name and with my own face, and under a new name and face I couldn't produce a reference from a former employer. It seems better to start afresh. And when you come home, my darling, we shall not be quite penniless and can begin the world again together.

I am going to give this letter to the bank to be delivered to you if I have not reclaimed it by that date to which we both look forward, my dearest dear. Your HELEN.

In spite of the news she had brought him, Hugo Mostyn left behind her a strange peace in the perfect room to which they had carried Hugo Donaldson out of the world of carefree youth he knew. Although he did not decline it to himself, it was there, as the spring day faded to dusk and one by one lamps in the park opened their yellow eyes among the trees.

Tright crept in once and Leeder came to take the tea things away, but Hugo feigned sleep and they left him softly. He lay looking out the window at the yellow eyes, and presently seeing far off a chain of twinkling lights as London began to deck herself with jewels for the night.

Cars slipped through the park in a happy, hurrying procession and he could distinguish the color of the limousines carrying people out to dinner or the theater, and the friendly chug, chug, of little cars going home. One paused in distress below his window, the engine bleating loudly. It started, then stopped again.

"Going on one cylinder, that's what you are doing," said Hugo, lending a sympathetic ear to the voice of the little car, and pictured the owner jumping out and admonishing it in a fatherly manner, cleaning its defective plug, then getting in again.

"Yes, now she's off. That's better," said Hugo, in a tone of pleased congratulation. "I wonder what they did with my poor little bus."

He had been fond of Miss Trotsky, so-called, of course, because she was red, and presently the thought of her bright bonnet made him remember Hugo's flaming scarlet pajamas which she thought of wearing in the park some day, and he laughed.

Good old Hugo! She hadn't come to him with pity or sympathy or cheer. She had come to him as one friend to another asking his help (for Paul, and Hugo pulled himself together, feeling that once more he belonged to the world of men.)

Women Answer En Masse To Community Chest Drive

The Atlanta Community Chest campaign committee has sounded its clarion call for assistance from Atlanta people, to which the women of the city have answered en masse. In all causes which challenge the best of citizenship and evoke those qualities which have characterized women wherever humanity has been in need, womanhood has given itself freely and without restraint. This case is no exception. Beginning Monday, when chest workers will set forth on their mission of raising a $480,000 fund for the poor and needy of Atlanta, whose welfare is foremost in the thoughts and hearts of Atlantans today, more than 300 Atlanta women, under the chairmanship of Mesdames Samuel Lumpkin, William E. Huger and Frank Holland, will set forth through the residential sections of the city, which has been delegated to them alone, to solicit the aid of all who appreciate the potency of a situation which concerns the life and welfare of the downtrodden, the heartick and the needy; those who have had a meager chance, and those who but for the assistance of far-sighted Atlanta people may have no chance at all.

Under the leadership of Harry M. Atkinson, president of the board of directors, women of the city will rally to the aid of the chest drive, to let their potent influence be felt in this campaign of 1928, the first one in which the united efforts of Atlanta women will support the realization of Mr. Atkinson's ambition to put over the allotted quota. A woman's sympathy is proverbial. The interest that reaches out most completely to the unfortunate of any sphere is the expression of that inborn concern for others which abides in a woman's heart. To a woman life is a slow and tedious awakening. To her its maintenance and protection is of vital concern. Monday the women, together with those outstanding men of the city who annually rally to this most worthy of the city's enterprises, will seek a contribution. Little hands are reaching out in an appeal that is none the less urgent because it is unheard. Tears may be dried through cooperation. Hearts that have never known what it is to rejoice may find a new thrill. Out of the darkness of ignorance and poverty one life may find an open door. Let Atlantans provide the "open sesame" to a new world. Atlanta women believe that every woman asked to help will make donation to the fund as never before in the five years preceding this annual drive. Those in charge of the woman's division have asked that colonels, majors, chairmen, captains and others pledging their service meet at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning, November 15, at campaign headquarters, fourth floor, Electric and Gas building, Fairlie street entrance. Members of the woman's division will also attend the meeting of chest workers at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening on the Ansley hotel roof garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Give Reception On 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ray, of 1036 Colquitt avenue, beloved pioneer Atlanta couple, entertained at a brilliant reception Tuesday evening on the roof garden of the Ansley hotel, celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. The reception, which was featured by a musical program, assembled more than 150 friends of the honor guests. A color scheme of gold was carried out, magnificent yellow chrysanthemums being used in decoration. Mrs. Ray wore a model of black lace offset with a shoulder bouquet of yellow roses.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Ray were their daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Granger, Jr., and Mrs. W. O. Lindsay, Mrs. Maude Matthews, of Jacksonville, Fla.; their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Ray, of Dalton, and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ray, of Atlanta; and Mrs. Ray has three other sons, F. M. Ray, of San Francisco, Calif.; Luther and Warren Ray, of Pittsburg, Pa., who were unable to be present at the reception.

Miss Sarah Maude Gramling, a granddaughter of the honor guests, kept the bride's book. Other granddaughters who assisted in entertaining were Miss Ray Matthews, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Miss Virginia Ray, of Dalton, Ga.; Miss Edna Gramling, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Miss Maude Matthews, of Jacksonville, Fla.; and Miss Elizabeth Matthews, of Jacksonville, Fla. Another grandchild, Miss Mary May, of Jacksonville, Fla., was also present on this occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Ray have taken an active part in many forward movements in the city's life since making their home here more than 50 years ago.

A big bus carried the store's staff to the Regenstein home at the close of business hours Tuesday afternoon. A delightful buffet supper was served and an entertainment program staged, this being featured by solos by Miss Fay Bailey and a reading by Mrs. Cooper.

Byrd. The hostess was assisted by her mother and sister, Mrs. D. B. Teabean, and Mrs. William Candler.

The guests included 18 friends of the hostess and honor guest.

K. of C. Auxiliary

Celebrates Anniversary.

The ladies auxiliary of the Knights of Columbus will celebrate its first anniversary Thursday, November 15, in the Columbian clubhouse, 1200 Peachtree. From 3 to 5 o'clock tea will be served and at 4 o'clock a program will be given by Miss Janette Young and Eugene Adams, clever entertainers known professionally as Gene and Janette, pupils of Leonard White.

Miss Miriam Davis, Miss Margaret Friedman and little Mary Anne Lane, pupils of Miss Anna Agricola, will complete the program.

In the evening at 8 o'clock a reception will be held with dancing from 8:45 till 11 o'clock. The proceeds of the parties given by the auxiliary during the year have been used to help furnish the new clubhouse. The officers of the auxiliary are: Mrs. Lewis Gordon, president; Mrs. C. J. Collins, first vice president; Miss Annie McElroy, second vice president; Mrs. A. P. Aicklen, treasurer; Mrs. John King, corresponding secretary; Miss Callie Flynn, recording secretary.

Visitors calling will be assessed a penny a year, according to age. A generous patronage is urged.

Girl Scout Leaders

Receive Chart.

A feature of the Girl Scout leaders meeting on Monday afternoon at Girl Scout headquarters was the presentation to the leaders of a diagnostic character chart by Mrs. William Talley, local director. Through the chart the temperaments and characteristics of the girls may be more closely studied and understood, and the most valuable activities planned for the individual groups. A chart may be secured from Girl Scout headquarters by those interested in leadership.

Miss Isabel Clarke was appointed by the executive committee as chairman of the Leaders association with Mrs. L. Linton Deek as secretary. A Girl Scout doll show will be held December 15. Each troop will dress a nine-inch to 15-inch doll and enter it in the needlewomen's contest. The dolls after being judged will be pre-

Atlanta Women Are in New Orleans For League Meeting

Mrs. R. L. Turman, director of the third region of the National League of Women Voters, and Miss Hulda Moorhead, secretary for the third region, are in New Orleans to discuss problems of organization and civic duties with the members of the New Orleans league, and are in attendance upon the Louisiana league convention. Miss Moorhead will be ready to answer questions relative to problems of the woman voter. She was one of the principal speakers at the Orleans Parish league Tuesday. She went to New Orleans from Baton Rouge, where she was a guest of Mrs. E. O. Powers, chairman of the East Baton Rouge Parish league. After the meeting in New Orleans Miss Moorhead will go to Lafayette to confer with the league leader, and from there to visit the league at Shreveport, the chairman of which is Mrs. Aline Mabry.

Mrs. Turman, a descendant of an old Virginia family, has lived in Atlanta for a number of years and is prominent in women's work throughout Georgia. She has contributed to current political literature, as the author of "Studies in Citizenship for Georgia Women," a volume that has been used as a textbook in several Georgia high schools. She has also made available to the Georgia League of Women Voters a chart called "Madam, Who Keeps Your Home?" showing the relation between the home and the political affairs of the city. She drew up another chart on voting instructions that has been found helpful to several civic organizations.

Mrs. Turman was one of the two women speakers on the faculty of the school of politics held at Emory university last winter, and has conducted several citizenship conferences in Atlanta. During her tenure of office as president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, the membership grew to about one thousand members, and she is considered as an authority on local politics and is well informed on the problems arising in the third region of the national league.

Sunday School Study Course.

The teachers of the Pryor Street Sunday school will begin an intensive study course Wednesday, November 14, continuing it indefinitely. Atlantans Visit Asheville, N. C., For Southern Medical Convention

Asheville, N. C., November 13.—Atlanta physicians and surgeons, some of them accompanied by their wives, are taking a conspicuous part in the meeting of the Southern Medical Association in Asheville this week, which the Southern Medical Journal predicted would be the greatest in the history of the organization. Medical and surgical authorities of world reputation are included among the speakers.

Among the Atlanta women in attendance, Mrs. Allen H. Bunce has the most prominent role, as president of the women's auxiliary. Her address was the feature of the auxiliary's opening meeting on Tuesday. Mrs. Charles E. Downman, of Atlanta, was one of the first women to go to the links of the Asheville Country club Monday morning in preparation for the women's tournament to be played Wednesday. A foursome included Dr. and Mrs. Downman and Dr. and Mrs. Stuart McGuire, of Richmond.

Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Grove, Dr. and Mrs. Jack Jones, and Dr. and Mrs. Downman were among those motoring up Sunday in time for dinner and the organ concert at Grove Park inn. Others at the dinner were Dr. and Mrs. Bates Block, Dr. J. E. Paulin, Dr. and Mrs. Frank K. Bond, Dr. Lawson Thornton, Dr. E. G. Ballenger, Dr. Stuart Roberts, Dr. Boyd L. Montague, Dr. Grady Clay, Dr. Phinizy Calhoun, Dr. James A. McLeister, Dr. and Mrs. Dan C. Elkin.

Elaborate entertainment by the members of the medical profession of Asheville and their wives is being offered the visitors, of whom there are more than 3,000. This entertainment includes motor trips for the ladies to see the mountain country in all its autumn glory, to be followed by teas at the homes of the local physicians' wives, a bridge party Tuesday night at Grove Park inn, and a dance Wednesday night at Kenilworth. A number of private functions will be given, among these a stag supper at which Dr. Edward King will be host at his home in Baltimore. Forst in honor of the surgeons of the orthopedic division of the convention, of which he is chairman, reception. Among the distinguished visitors spending November at Grove Park inn are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. They spent Monday at Pisgah and during their stay will visit the newly established Smoky Mountains National park, to the purchase of which Mr. Rockefeller gave five million dollars in memory of his mother. A brilliant social event in Asheville announced for Saturday evening, December 1, at Grove Park inn will be a southern debutante ball given by the inn and sponsored by the Junior league, of Asheville. The honor guests will be the debutante candidates for the season in the Junior league in all the southern cities, their selection made by their local leagues. The gaiety of the occasion will be added to also the presence of a Thanksgiving week-end party of college men from one of the large eastern universities.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Seale will close their home on Grove park on Sunday morning the latter part of November for the rest of the winter, and after a visit in southern California they will sail from Vancouver for Manila, P. I., to visit their daughter, Mrs. John M. Beard, who, with Mr. Beard, representative of the United States Steel corporation, has resided there for two years. They will be accompanied by their youngest son, Fred, Jr., and will return in March.

Prominent Georgians motoring to Asheville for the past week-end, dining Saturday night at Grove Park inn, and attending the weekly dance afterwards in the new convention hall, were Major and Mrs. Homer Harris and Mr. and Mrs. James White.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE BOY AND THE GUN.

Georgia Mother Has Problem

As a rule, milk is about the best food for children, but there are times when they are much better off without it. It should always be left off when children show feverish, fretful or cross spells, by bad breath, coated tongue, yellow skin, indigestion, biliousness, etc., that their stomach and bowels are out of order.

In cases like this, California Fig Syrup never fails to work wonders, by the quick and gentle way it removes all the souring waste which is causing the trouble, regulates the stomach and bowels and gives the organs rest and strength so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. Children love its rich, fruity flavor and it's purely vegetable and harmless, even for babies.

Millions of mothers have proved its merit and reliability in over 50 years of steadily increasing use. A Georgia mother, Mrs. P. P. Wood, R. F. D. No. 5, Center Hill, Atlanta, says: "My little girl Margaret's tendency to constipation was a problem to me until I began giving her California Fig Syrup. It helped her right away and soon her stomach and bowels were acting perfectly. Since then I've never had to have any advice, but her bowels are all right. I have also used California Fig Syrup with my other children, with equal success."

To be sure of getting the genuine, which physicians endorse, always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name.—(adv.)

food supply. So there was nothing to do but to keep on. It certainly had been a hard year for nuts over a great deal of territory.

One morning Rusty came to a little group of trees. It was a little grove. There were hickory trees among them and he found a few scattered hickory nuts. They were the first hickory nuts he had found since he started on his journey. Perhaps you can guess how good they tasted to him. He was sitting up in a tree eating one and so happy that he had forgotten everything but his enjoyment. He didn't hear dry leaves below him rustling. He didn't hear the snap of a dead twig. Spang! Something knocked a nut right out of his paws. Rusty had such a fright that he nearly fell from his perch. Yes, sir, he nearly fell from his perch. Spang! Something struck the branch Rusty was sitting on. He sprang to the trunk of the tree and ran around to the other side. Then he peeped around cautiously.

Down below was a boy. In his hands was a gun. It wasn't one of those dreadful guns that spit fire and make a loud noise. This one made a very little noise, but it shot bullets just the same. It was an air gun—the kind of a gun that boys delight to have.

The boy was peering up excitedly. When he saw Rusty peeping around from behind the trunk of the tree, the boy took careful aim. Spang! The bullet hit the tree right under Rusty's nose. You should have seen him dodge back. This time he scrambled higher and tried to hide in the treetop. The boy walked around below. Every time he caught a glimpse of Rusty he would put that gun to his shoulder. Spang! would come a bullet. Poor Rusty! He tried another tree. The boy and the dreadful rifle followed him. You see, in none of those trees was there a hollow big enough for a Fox Squirrel to hide in. The only thing, he could do was to keep the trunk of the tree between him and the boy with that horrid gun.

At last, when Rusty was near the top of the tallest tree, one of those bullets hit him. Mr. boy did sting! It tore his coat so that he bled just a little. It wasn't anything serious, but it was painful. That is the trouble with those air rifles. There was small chance that at that distance a bullet would kill Rusty, but bullets could sting and hurt at that distance, as Rusty had already found out.

After that, Rusty was more careful than ever to keep the trunk of the tree between himself and the boy. He had to be around to keep watch of that boy and, of course, every time he did this he took some chance. One of those bullets might hit him in the eye. Poor Rusty! He was badly frightened. The place where he had been hit ached. He couldn't see any chance to escape. It really was very painful for Rusty.

Meanwhile, the boy was having a wonderful time. He imagined himself a mighty hunter. Everytime he made a good shot, he was mightily pleased with himself. Yet that boy wasn't a hard-hearted boy. He didn't understand. It didn't occur to him that a squirrel would feel pain just as he would. He didn't think of Rusty as suffering dreadful fright as well as pain. He himself was having sport and that was all he thought of.

The next story, "Rusty is Worse Off Than Before."

OUR CLUB — By Seckatary Hawkins

"THE IDEA WORKED FINE. BOBBY WENT OVER AND TOLD THE PELHAMS WHAT WE HAD SAID, AND RIGHT AWAY ALL THE PELHAMS RAN DOWN TO THE RAILROAD TRACKS, LEAVING THEIR CAMP DESERTED, WHICH WAS JUST WHAT WE HOPED THEY WOULD DO."

"WE WAITED A WHILE, THEN WE GOT MY CANOE OUT, AND ALL OF US WENT OVER TO THEIR CAMP. WE STACKED ALL THEIR TENTS IN A HURRY, THEN JOHNNY THREW A STICK FROM THE FIRE ON EM."

"THEY TENTS WERE ONLY HEAVY WRAPPING PAPER, AND STARTED TO BURN QUICK. NOW SAYS JOHNNY, 'I HOPE YOU FEEL EVEN WITH EM, HAWKINS. I DO A LITTLE BIT, I SAYS, 'BUT NOT QUITE.' SO WE BORROWED THEIR THREE FLATBOATS, AND BEAT IT FOR OUR SIDE."

"MY POP ALWAYS DID SAY: 'BOYS WILL BE BOYS.'"

Radio-ing the Air Waves

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

Bernhard Levitow and his orchestra, known to radio listeners since the pioneer days of the broadcasting art, will begin a series of programs over the Columbia chain in the Kolster hour beginning tonight at 9 o'clock.

The Levitow concerts will be given on alternate weeks, the other Wednesdays being filled with a light novelty program something of the nature of the "Will Rogers for President" rallies which have just been concluded.

One of the features of Bernhard Levitow's radio concerts in the past which has attracted wide attention will be continued in this series.

The canary birds which hang in cages near the orchestra have frequently been heard from the loudspeakers of the radio audience and they in turn have elicited their own applause letters. Because these bird songs have been so closely associated with Levitow's music, they are to be heard in the Kolster hours. Special birds, favorites of the orchestra leader, will be brought to the studio on the morning of the broadcast, they being permitted to remain in the studio to become accustomed to their surroundings so that they will be singing the time the concert begins.

Continuing its series of mid-week concerts, the United Military band will be heard from the Columbia system at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

A stirring march by Laurendeau entitled "Attention" opens the program, which includes amongst other numbers Lake's "A Day at the Fair," Pryor's "Razzazz-Mazzazz" and "Heart of America," and Hager's "The Boy and the Bird."

An interesting novelty number to be heard at this time is a duet for flute and horn, "Serenade," by Titi.

The Ipana Troubadours are featuring Singing Troubadour Jack Parker in their half-hour broadcast over WSB and the N. B. C. system at 8 o'clock tonight.

Troubadour Parker began his career at the age of 7 in the boys' choir at Nyack, N. Y. From Nyack he went to New York city where he was soloist at Grace church and later at St. Thomas. His first theatrical engagement was with De Wolf Hopper. Other engagements included seasons with the "Follies," "Blossom Time" and the Chicago production of "Rose-Marie." After a vaudeville tour he settled again in New York and has since devoted all his time to recording and broadcasting.

Mr. Parker has been singing choruses on the Troubadour's program for some time in a solo selection, "Dear Little Boy of Mine."

The complete program follows:

Guitar Novelty
My Silver Tree, from "Three Cheers"
Duet
Good Boy, from "Good Boy"

Ensemble

The entr'acte of Bizet's opera "Carmen" will be an orchestral feature of the Palmolive hour to be broadcast over WSB and the N. B. C. system at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Gustave Haenschen has also selected "In a Garden," from Goldmark's "Rural Wedding," as an added symphony number.

Olive Palmer's coloratura soprano solos are "Chanson Provencale" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Chanson Indienne." With Paul Olive she will be heard in "My Silver Tree" from "Three Cheers" and the popular tenor's solo will be "When" by Benham. An added feature of the broadcast will be a contralto solo, "The Slave," by Palo, and a baritone solo, "Three for Jack."

"Guess Who's in Town" and "Dish" are the selections to be given by the Palmolive Revelers and there will be the usual guitar, saxophone and wood-wind novelties as well as tuneful specialty orchestra selections. The augmented Palmolive Ensemble will sing "Underneath the Japanese Moon," Fibi's "Poem Poetique," and "Blossoms."

Frank Black, pianist and director of the Seiberling hour, an N. B. C. weekly program, will appear with the Singing Violins during the RCA demonstration hour to be broadcast through WSB and the N. B. C. system at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

This group will present Saint-Saens' composition, "The Swan," Merle Johnston, N. B. C. artist, known as a virtuoso of the saxophone, will play as a solo "Japanese Idyl," while Kreisler's arrangement of "La Gitana" will be offered as a cello solo by Hirsch, a member of the group presenting the Palmolive hour.

Other soloists will represent the Wrigley hour, the Champion Squares, and various programs on the air each week.

Among other selections, the RCA dance orchestra will play "Lipsa Daisy" from the musical success of that name; the salon group will play Godowsky's "Nocturnal Tangier," and Hinsk's "Organ of the Spirit" will be contributed by the symphony orchestra.

"Thanksgiving Fruit Cake" is the subject Mrs. Helen Stevens Fisher has selected for her household talk in Montgomery Ward and company's "Farm and Home Hour," to be broadcast at noon today over WSB from the Chicago studios of the National Broadcasting company.

Practical suggestions for men will also be broadcast during the "Farm and Home Hour." The Homesteaders, in his daily "How To Do It" column, will offer listeners the helpful ideas he has received from still other leaders. Music, both vocal and instru-

Majestic Crosses Ocean in Graf Zeppelin!

FIRST AS USUAL

For the first time in history a console radio set has crossed the ocean in an airship. It was a MAJESTIC, of course. And MAJESTIC was chosen because of merit!

Read this interesting letter received from the Zeppelin's Chief Engineer:

(Translation)

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 20, 1928

Gentlemen: I am the Chief Engineer of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin and came to America in her very recently, and through relatives in Philadelphia I heard your Majestic Radio Apparatus.

I like the performance of the built-in loud speaker very well and since we do not have anything like that in Germany I beg to ask you if it would not be possible to take one of your sets back with me in the Zeppelin to Germany, and under what conditions.

I would show the set with great joy over there and it would help me remember the enthusiastic reception which all of us found in America.

Very sincerely,

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN, Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, November 13.—(AP)—Reports of probable crop damage by rust did a good deal to boost the wheat market today. Besides, for the first time in weeks, the United States wheat visible supply showed a decrease. There was also what buying to anticipate possibility that the Canadian government report this evening would prove bullish.

Final quotations on wheat were firm, 3-4c to 5c a bushel net higher, with corn 7-8c to 1-2c to 7-8c up, oats at 1-4c to 3-8c to 5-8c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 17c.

Reports of Rains Felt.

Upturns in wheat prices here came after a wavering start that was associated with uncertainty about current unofficial crop estimates from Canada. Then came news from Buenos Aires that too much rain was prevalent in northern Argentina, where cutting of new wheat in the most ready to commence. On the other hand, export business today of wheat from North America was off what limited volume, 400,000 bushels.

Highest prices of the day in wheat were reached after announcement that the domestic visible supply of wheat showed a decrease of 225,000 bushels, whereas another increase had been looked for. However, the total is yet 135,921,000 bushels, against 90,783,000 bushels last year.

Market Closes Strong.

Meanwhile strength displayed by the Winnipeg market gave confidence to reports circulated in some quarters that the official estimate of 1928 wheat production in Canada would be larger as a consequence of the close harvest was at almost the day's top level.

Stubborn commission house demand in the face of selling to realize profits carried corn up to the highest prices which March and May deliveries have reached yet this season. Earlier favorable weather throughout the corn belt and liberal arrivals of country offerings had a bearing effect. Country corn offerings were small and direct to country dealers for cereals under July 1.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

WITH DOGGED DETERMINATION, THE MARINES ADVANCED IN THREE COLUMNS TOWARD THE JUNGLE, THROUGH A HAIL OF MAUSER BULLETS FROM THEIR UNSEEN FOES. WHEN THE AMERICANS HAD REACHED THE SHELTER OF THE TREES, THE ODDS WERE IN THEIR FAVOR, AND THE SPANIARDS, THREATENED BY THE FLASHING BAYONETS OF THE MARINES, SCATTERED IN ALL DIRECTIONS.

The Story of Our War With Spain. Guerrilla Fighting in the Jungle.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

SEVERAL DAYS AFTER THEY HAD LANDED AT GUANTANAMO BAY, THE AMERICAN MARINES FOUND THEMSELVES STILL CHECKED AND HARASSED BY THE "SAUPE" OF SPANISH GUERRILLAS HIDDEN IN THE JUNGLE. TO RETREAT TO THE WARSHIPS WOULD MEAN A SERIOUS LOSS OF PRESTIGE. THE ONLY HOPE OF SUCCESS LAY IN A SPIRITED OFFENSIVE.

AFTER FIVE DAYS AND AS MANY ALMOST SLEEPLESS NIGHTS, THE AMERICANS HAD DRIVEN THE SPANIARDS BACK ACROSS THE BAY TO LA CAIMA NEAR (ALLIGATOR POOL), AND THE WHITE TENTS OF THE VOLUNTEERS ROSE ONCE AGAIN AT CAMP MCCALLA ON THE HILL.

"Why Are You Late?"

When the Sweet Gal you have a date with says: "Why are you late?"—What are you gonna say? "Had a flat tire," won't work, they think you're pulling some old gag on them—if they don't think that an' they believe you had a flat then they don't want to take a chance on getting late themselves, so they won't go out. They know that one flat tire means there might be more near—Anyways, what's the use in havin' flat tires when old Cottingham is ready to fit you out in new Columbus or Firestone tires and tubes—an' the best part is that there's no embarrassment in performance to go through in gettin' that good old Cottingham credit. Boys, we got the credit for you an' every day you don't use it is wasted for you.

Come and see me.
